Preface.

The present new edition of Mr. JÄSCHKE'S Tibetan Grammar scarcely needs a word of apology. As the first edition which was lithographed at Kyelaṅ in 1865 in a limited number of copies has long been out of print, Dr. ROST urged the author to revise his grammar for the purpose of bringing it out in an improved form. The latter, prevented by ill-health from undertaking the task, placed the matter in my hands, and had the goodness to make over to me his own manuscript notes and additions to the original work. Without his personal cooperation, however, I was unable to make any but a very sparing use of these, adding only a few remarks from Gyalrabs and Milaraspa, with some further remarks on the local vernacular of Western Tibet. Indeed, special attention has been paid throughout to this dialect; it is the one with which the author during his long residence at Kyelaṅ had become most familiar, and with which the English in India are most likely to be brought into direct contact.

Besides the above mentioned additions, I have taken a number of examples from the Dzaṅlun, to make clearer some of the rules, and, with the same view, I have altered, here and there, the wording of the lithographed edition.

The order of the paragraphs has been retained throughout, and only one (23.) has been added for completeness' sake.

The system of transliteration is nearly the same as in the Dictionary, only for ny, ñ is used, and instead of e̤, ā (respectively a̤) has been thought to be a clearer representation of the sound intended. For the niceties of pronunciation the reader is referred to the Dictionary, as in this Grammar only the general rules have been given.

Finally I must express my warmest thanks to Dr. Rost, to whose exertions not only the printing of this Grammar is solely due, but who also rendered me much help in the correcting of the work.

Mayence, May 1883.

Phonology.

1. The Alphabet. The Tibetan Alphabet was adapted from the Lañča (ལྷན་ཚ) form of the Indian letters by Ton-mi-sam-bho-ta (ཐོན་མི་སམ་བྷོ་ཊ) minister of king Śron-tsan-gam-po (སྲོང་བཙན་སྒམ་པོ) about the year 632 (s. Köpp. II, 56). The Indian letters out of which the single Tibetan characters were formed are given in the following table in their Nāgari shape.

	surd.	aspir.	sonant.	nasal.
gutturals. .	क ka	ख ḱa	ग ga	ङ ṅa
palatals. . .	च ċa	छ čа	ज ja	ञ ña
dentals. . .	त ta	थ ťa	द da	न na
labials. . .	प pa	फ ṕa	ब ba	म ma
palatal sibilants. .	ts tsa	tś tśa	dz dsa
	व wa	ź źa	z za	' 'a semivowels	य ya	र ra	ल la
	ś śa	ष ṣa	स sa	ह ha	' 'a

It is seen from this table that several signs have been added to express sounds that are unknown in Sanscrit. The sibilants ཤ ཧ ཨ evidently were differentiated from the palatals. But as in transcribing Sanscrit words the Tibetans substitute their sibilants for the palatals of the original (as ཤོན་ for चोन), we must suppose that the sibilisation of those consonants, common at present among the Hindus on the Southern slopes of the Himūlaya (who speak tsār for चार्, four etc.), was in general use with those Indians from whom the Tib. Alphabet was taken (cf. also the Afghan څ and ځ likewise sprung from ڙ and ژ). ཕ is differentiated from བ, which itself often is pronounced v, as shewn in the sequel; in transcribing Sanscrit, ब and व both are given, generally, by བ only. ཞ seems to be formed out of ཛ to which it is related in sound. ཫ evidently is only the inverted ཨ. ཬ corresponds with Sanscrit ऋ. ཀྵ is newly invented; for its functions see the following §§. — The letters which are peculiar to Sanscrit are expressed, in transcribing, in the following manner. a) The linguals, simply by inverting the signs of the dentals: thus, ཊ ཋ, ཌ ཌྷ, ཎ ཎྷ, ཥ ཥྷ. b) The sonant aspirates, by putting ཧ under the sonants: thus, གྷ ངྷ, ཇྷ ཉྷ, ཌྷ ནྷ, དྷ བྷ, ཛྷ མ.*)

*) A very clear exposition of the ramification of Indian alphabets by Dr. Haas is to be found in the Publications of the Palaeographical Society Oriental Series IV, pl XLIV.

2. Remarks. 1. Regarding the pronunciation of the single letters, as given above, it is to be born in mind, that surds ཀ ཏ པ are uttered without the least admixture of an aspiration, viz. as k, t, p are pronounced in the words skate, stale, spear; the aspirates ཁ ཐ ཕ forcibly, rather harder than the same in Kate, tale, peer; the sonants ག ད བ like g, d, b in gate, dale, beer. 2. The same difference of hardness is to be observed in ཅ ཆ ཇ or c̀, c̆, j (c̆ occurs in church; c̀, the same without aspiration; j in judge) and in ཙ ཚ ཛ or ts, t̀s, ds. 3. ཞ is the soft modification of ṡ or the s in leisure (French j in jamais, but more palatal). 4. ང is the English ng in sing, but occurs in Tibetan often in the commencement of a syllable. 5. ཉ ñ is the Hindi ञ, or the initial sound in the word new, which would be spelled ཉུ ñu. 6. In the dialects of Eastern or Chinese-Tibet, however, the soft consonants ག ད བ ཇ ཛ, when occurring as initials, are pronounced with an aspiration, similar to the Hindi घ, ध, भ, झ, or indeed so that they often scarcely differ from the common English k, t, p, ch; also ཞ and ཟ are more difficult to distinguish from ཤ and ས than in the Western provinces (Exceptions s. §§ 7. 8).

3. Vowels. 1. Since every consonant sign implies, like its Sanscrit prototype, a following a, unless some other vowel sign is attached to it, no particular sign is wanted to denote this vowel, except in some cases specified in the following §§. The special vowel signs are ེ, ི, ོ, ུ, pronounced respectivily as e, i, o, u are in German, Italian and most other European languages, viz. ེ like ay in say, or e in ten; ི like i in machine, tin; ོ like o in so, on; ུ like u in rule, pull. It ought to be specially remarked that all vowels, including e and o (unlike the Sanscrit vowels from whom they have taken their signs) are short, since no long vowels at all occur in the Tibetan language, except particular circumstances, mentioned below (s. § 9. 5, 6). 2. When vowels are initial, ཨ is used as their base, as is ا in Urdu, e. g. ཨ་མ་ ama, ‚mother'. 3. འ is originally different from ཨ, as the latter denotes the opening of the previously closed throat for pronouncing a vowel with that slight explosive sound which the Arabs mean by ا (همزة), as the a in the words: the lily, an endogen, which would be in Tibetan characters ལི་ལི་ཨན་; འ on the contrary is the mere vowel without that audible opening of the throat (as Arabic ا without ء), as in Lilian, ལི་ལི་འན་ In Eastern Tibet this difference is strictly observed; and if the vowel is o or u the intentional exercion for avoiding the sound of ཨ makes it resemble to wo and wu: འོ་མ་ ‚the milk', almost like wo-ma, ཨུག་པ་ ‚the owl' = wug-pa. In western Tibet this has been obliterated, and འ is there spoken just like ཨ

4. Syllables. The Tibetan language is monosyllabic, that is to say all its words consist of one syllable only, which indeed may be variously composed, though the componend parts cannot, in every case, be recognised in their individuality. The mark for the end of such a syllable is a dot, called ཚེག་ tseg, put at the right side of the upper part of the closing letter, such as ཀ་ the syllable ka. This tseg must invariably be put down at the end of each written syllable, except before a śad (§ 10), in which case only ང་ ṅa retains its tseg. If therefore such a dot is found after two or more consonants, this will indicate that all of them, some way or other, form one syllable with only one vowel in it: ཀ་ར་ ka-ra, ཀར་ kar (cf. §§ 5. 8).

5. Final consonants. 1. Only the following ten: ག་ ང་ ད་ ན་ བ་ མ་ འ་ ར་ ལ་ ས་ (and the four with affixed ས, v. 5) occur at the end of a syllable. 2. It must be observed, that ག་ ད་ བ་ as finals are never pronounced like the English g, d, b in leg, bad, cab, but are transformed differently in the different provinces. In Ladak they sound like k, t, p e. g. སོག་ = sock, གོད་ = got, ཐོབ་ = top. 3. In all Central Tibet, moreover, final ད་ and ན་, sometimes even ལ་, modify the sound of a preceeding vowel: a to ä (similar to the English a in hare, man), o into ǫ (French eu in jeu), u into ų (French u in mur). In most of the other provinces ག་ and ད་ are uttered so indistinctly as to be scarcely audible, so that སོག་, གོད་ become sǒ, gǒ. In Tsang even final ལ་ is scarcely perceptible, and final ག་, particularly after o, is almost dissolved into a vowel sound = a: སོལ་བ་ so-wa, དཀོན་མཆོག་ *kon-choa.) 4. Final ས་ is sounded as s only in Northern Ladak; elsewhere it changes into i or dissappears entirely, prolonging, or even modifying at the same time the preceding vowel. Thus the following words: ནས་ ‚barley', ཤེས་ ‚know', རིས་ ‚figure', ཆོས་ ‚religion', ལུས་ ‚body', are pronounced in Northern Ladak: năs, šĕs, ris, čos, lŭs; in Lahoul: nai, shei, rī, čō, lū; in Lhasa, and consequently by everyone who wishes to speak elegantly: nā̆, šĕ, rī, čō̆, lū̆. 5. In some words final ས་ occurs as a second closing letter (affix), after ག་ ང་ ད་ མ་, as in ནགས་ ‚forest', གངས་ ‚glacier-ice', དགས་ ‚means', རམས་ ‚indigo'; these are pronounced in N. Ladak: nacks, gaṅs, ťaps, rams, elsewhere nack (in Ü: nā), gaṅ (ET ghang), ťap, ram. 6. ན་ before ད་ and མ་ is especially in ET very often pronounced m, e.g. ཉན་པ་ ñăm-pa, ཉོན་པ་ ñŏm-pa, སྙེམ་པ་ ñem-pa.

6. Dipthongs. 1. They occur in Tibetan writing only where one of the vowels i, o, u have to be added to a word ending with an other vowel (s. §§ 15. 1; 33. 1; 45. 2). These additional vowels are then always written ཱི་, ེ་, ུ་, never ཻ་ etc. (cf. § 3. 3); and the combinations ai, oi, ui (as in བཀའི་, མགོའི་, བྱའི་) are pronounced very much like ā̆, ō̆, ū̆, so that the syllables ནའི་, ཤེའི་, རིའི་, ཆོའི་,

*) This is the form in which the word, chosen by the missionaries to express the Christian „God" (cf. dict.), has found its way into several popular works.

ཨུའི་ can only in some vulgar dialects be distinguished from those mentioned in § 5. 4. 2. The others ao, eo, io, oo, uo, au, eu, iu (བཀའི་, སྐྱེའོ་, བཀྲིའོ་, འགྲོའོ་, འདྲུའོ་, གཟའུ་, བྱེའུ་, ཁྱིའུ་) are pronounced in rapid conjunction, but either vowel is distinctly audible. In prosody they are generally regarded as one syllable, but if the verse should require it they may be counted as two.

7. Compound consonants. 1. They are expressed in writing by putting one below the other, in which case several change their original figure.

Subjoined consonants. 2. The letter y subjoined to another is represented by the figure ྱ, and occurs in connection with the three gutturals and labials, and with m, thus ཀྱ ཁྱ གྱ པྱ ཕྱ བྱ མྱ. The former three have preserved, in most cases, their original pronunciation kya, kya, gya (the latter in ET: ghya s. § 2. 6). In the Mongol pronunciation of Tibetan words, however, they have been corrupted into ǰ, č, j respectively, a well known instance of which is the common pronunciation Kanǰur i. o. kangyur, or eleg. ka-gyur (བཀའ་འགྱུར་). ཉ, ཟ, ཧ are almost everywhere spoken without any difference from ཅ, ཙ, ཤ (except in the Western dialect before e and i, where the y is dropped and ཌ, ཎ, ན alone are pronounced). ཉྱ is spoken ny = ཉ. 3. r occurs at the foot of the gutturals, dentals, labials, of ཀ, ཏ, པ, and ཅ, in the shape of ྲ. In some parts of the country, as in Purig, these combinations are pronounced literally, like kra, khra etc., but by far the most general custom is to sound them like the Indian cerebrals, viz. ཀྲ, དྲ, བྲ indiscriminately = ཊ ṭ; ཁྲ, ཐྲ, སྲ = ཋ ṭh; གྲ, དྲ, བྲ = ཌ ḍ (in CT: ḍh); only in the case of བྲ the literal pronunciation br is not uncommon. In ཤྲ and སྲ both letters are distinctly heard; ཤྲ sounds like shr in shrub, and so does སྲ generally. In Ü this r is dropped nearly in all cases: thus, སྤ pa, སྟ sa etc. 4. Six letters are often found with an ཡ beneath: པ་ ཕ་ བ་ མ་ ཙ་ ཚ་; in these the ཡ alone is pronounced, except in བྱ་, which sounds da. 5. The figure ◁, sometimes found at the food of a letter is used in Sanscrit words to express the subjoined ཧ, as in སྭཱ་ཧཱ་ (cf. § 9. 6) for स्वाहा; and is now pronounced by Tibetans = ō: sōhā; in words originally Tibetan it now exists merely as an orthographical mark, to distinguish homonymes in writing, as ཙ་ tsa ‚hot' and རྩྭ་ tsa ‚salt'; but, as it is spoken, in some words at least, in Balti (e. g. རྩྭ་ rtswa ‚grass', it must be supposed that, in the primitive form of the lauguage, it was generally heard. — Note. Of such compounds, indeed, as ལྷ་ ‚lot' it is difficult to understand, how they can have been pronounced literally, if the v was not, perhaps, pronounced before the y.

Superadded consonants. 6. r above another consonant is written ˉ, and 11 contonants have this sign: ཀ་ ཁ་ ང་ ད་ ན་ པ་ བ་ མ་ ཙ་ ཞ་, above ཧ་ it preserves its full shape, as better adapted to the form of that letter: thus, རྐ་. In speaking it is seldom heard except provincially, and in some instances in compound words after a vowel thus, ཨྃདྷྱཱན་ Urgyán, Urgyén, ancient name of the country of Lahore; རྡོ་རྗེ་ dórje ‚vaǰra'. Ladakees often pronounce it =s:- སྟ་ sta ‚horse' elsewhere ta. 7. Similar is the usage in those with a superadded ལ (namely: the surds and sonants of the first four classes, the guttural nasal, and ཧ), which latter is often softly heard in WT, but entirely dropped elsewhere, except in the ease of ལྷ, which is spoken = ལ in WT, but with a distinct aspiration = hla or lha in ET. 8. ར is superadded to the gutturals, dentals and labials with exception of the aspiratae, then ཉ་ and ཙ་. It is, in many cases, distinctly pronounced in Ladak, but dropped elsewhere*). 9. ག་ ད་ བ་ ཧ་ ཤ་ with any superadded letter lose the aspiration mentioned in § 2. 6 and sound = g, d, b, ǰ, ds 10. ཤ་ ཙ་ ཞ་ often lose even the inherent t-sound in pronunciation and are spoken like ǰ, s, z.

8. Prefixed letters. 1 The five letters ག་ ད་ བ་ མ་ འ་ frequently occur before the real, radical initials of other words, but are seldom pronounced, except in similar cases as § 7. 6. ག་ occurs before ཅ་ ཉ་ ཏ་ ད་ ན་ ཙ་ ཞ་ ཟ་ ཡ་ ཤ་ ས་; ད་ before the gutturals and labials with exception of the aspiratae; བ་ before ཀ་ ག་, the palatals, dentals and palatal sibilants with the same exception as under ད་, then ཞ་ ཟ་ ར་ ཤ་ ས་; མ་ before the gutturals, palatals, dentals and palatal sibilants, excepted the surds; འ་ before the aspiratae and sonants of the five classes. In C.T., to pronounce them in any case, is considered vulgar. 2. The ambiguity which would arise in case of the prefix standing before one of the 10 final consonants, as single radical, the vowel being the unwritten a, — e. g. in the syllable དག་, which, if ད་ is radical, has to be pronounced dag, if prefixed gā, — is avoided by adding an འ་ in the latter case: thus, དགའ་. Other examples are: གད་ gad (gä) and གདའ་ dā; བས་ bas (bą, bą) and བསའ་ sā; མད་ mad (mä) and མདའ་ dā; འགའ་ gā. This འ་ is added, though the radical be not one of the mentioned letters; as, བཀའ་ kā. 3. ད་ as a prefix and བ་ as first radical annul each other, so that only the following sound is heard, as will be seen in the compound produces in W.T some irregularities, which cannot all be specified here (see the diction . The custom of C.T., according to which the ས་ is entirely neglected is in this instance easier to be followed.

following examples (དབང་ etc.). 4. Another irregularity is the nasal pronunciation of the prefixed འ in compounds after a vowel, which is often heard e.g. དགེ་འདུན་ pronounced gen-dún, gen-dụ́n, but eleg.: ge-dụ́n, ‚clergy'; བཀའ་འབུམ་ kam-bum, eleg. ka-bùm, ‚the 100 000 precepts' (title of a book). — Note. With regard to the aspiration of the soft consonants in ET the prefixed letters have the same influence as the superadded ones § 7. 9.

9. Word; Accent; Quantity. 1. The peculiarity of the Tibetan mode of writing in distinctly marking the word-syllables, but not the words (cf. § 4) composed of two or more of these, sometimes renders is doubtful what is to be regarded as one word. 2. There exist a great number of small monosyllables, which serve for denoting different shades of notions, grammatical relations etc., and are postponed to the word in question; but never alter its original shape, though their own initials are not seldom influenced by its final consonant (cf. § 15). 3. Such monosyllables may conveniently be regarded as terminations, forming one word together with the preceeding nominal or verbal root. 4. The accent is, in such cases, most naturally given to the root, or, in compounds, generally to the latter part of the composition, as: མིག་ mig, ‚eye', མིག་གི་ mig-gi, ‚of the eye'; ལག་ lag, ‚hand', ལག་ཤུབས་ lag-šub(s), ‚hand-covering, glove'. — 5. Equally natural is, in W.T., the quantity of the vowels: accentuated vowels, when closing the syllable, are comparatively long (though never so long as in the English words bee, stay, or Hindi ایسا etc.), otherwise short, as མི་ mī ‚man', མི་ལ་ mī-lă ‚to the man', but མར་ măr, ‚butter'. — In CT, however, even accentuated and closing vowels are uttered very shortly: mĭ, mĭ-lă etc., and long ones occur there only in the case of § 5, 4. 5. and 8, 2., as ལས་ lā̆ ‚work'; ཆོས་ čō̆ ‚religion'; མདའ་ dā ‚arrow'; གཟའ་ zā ‚planet'; and in Lhasa especially: ནགས་ nā ‚forest'; ལེགས་པ་ lē-pa ‚good'; རིགས་ rī ‚class, sort'; ལོགས་ lō ‚side'; ལུགས་ lū ‚manner'. — In Sanscrit words the long vowels are marked by an ◌ྀ beneath the consonant, as: ནཱམ་ (नाम) ‚called', མཱུལ་ (मूल) ‚root' (s. § 3).

10. Punctuation. For separating the members of a longer period, a vertical stroke: ། called ཤད་ šad (šä), is used, which corresponds at once to our comma, semicolon and colon; after the closing of a sentence the same is doubled; after a longer piece, e g. a chapter, four šads are put. No marks of interrogation or exlamation exist in punctuation. — 2. In metrical compositions, the double šad is used for separating the single verses; in that case the logical partition of the sentence is not marked (cf. § 4).

Part II.

Etymology.

Chapter I. The Article.

11. Peculiarities of the Tibetan article. 1. What have been called Articles by Csoma and Schmidt, are a number of little affixes: ད་ ན་ མ་ པོ་ བོ་ མོ་, and some similar ones, which might perhaps be more adequately termed denominators, since their principal object is undoubtedly to represent a given root as a noun, substantive or adjective, as is most clearly perceptible in the instance of the roots of verbs, to which ད་ or ན་ impart the notion of the Infinitive and Participle, or the nearest abstract and nearest concrete nouns that can possibly be formed from the idea of a verb. These affixes are not, however, — except in this case — essential to a noun, as many substantives and adjectives and most of the pronouns are never accompanied by them, and even those which usually appear connected with them, will drop them upon the slightest occasion. 2. Almost the only case in which a syntactical use of them, like that of the English definite Article, is perceptible, is that mentioned § 20. 3; a formal one, that of distinguishing the Gender, occurs in a limited number of words, where མོ་ denotes the female, པོ་ the masculine. Thus: རྒྱལ་པོ་ gyál-po ‚king', རྒྱལ་མོ་ gyál-mo ‚queen'. Or, if the word in the masculine (or rather common) gender has no article, མོ་ is added: སེང་གེ sèn-ge ‚lion', སེང་གེ་མོ་ ‚lioness'. 3. In most instances, by far, their only use is to distinguish different meanings of homonymous roots, e.g. སྟོན་པ་ (s)tón-pa (tṓn-pa) ‚teacher'; སྟོན་མོ་ (s)tón-mo (tṓn-mo), ‚feast'; སྟོན་ཁ (s)tón-ka (tṓn-ka) ‚autumn'. Even this advantage, however, is given up, as soon as a composition takes place, and then the meaning can only be inferred from the context, or known from usage: མིང་སྟོན་ (from སྟོན་མོ་) ‚name feast' (given on the occasion of naming or christening an infant); སྟོན་ཟླ་ (from སྟོན་ཁ) ‚autumnal month'. In some instances the putting or omitting of these articles is optional; more frequently the usage varies in different provinces. 4. The peculiar nature of these affixes is most clearly shown by the manner in which they are connected with the indefinite article § 13.

Note. The affixes བ་ ཝ་ are after vowels and after the consonants ང་ ར་ ལ་ always pronounced wa and wo, instead of ba and bo; thus, དཀའ་བ་ ka-wa ‚difficult'; རེ་བ་ re-wa ‚hope'; གང་བ་ gaṅ-wa (gh°) ‚full'; ཟེར་བ་ zer-wa (ser-wa) ‚to say'; ཉལ་བ་ nyal-wa ‚hell'; ཇོ་ཝ་ jo-wo (jho-wo) ‚lord, master'.

12. Difference of the Articles among each other. 1. The usage of པ་ བ་ མ་ is the most general and widest of all, as they occur with all sorts of substantives and other nouns. པ་ is particularly used for denoting a man who is in a certain way connected with a certain thing (something like والا and والا in Hindustāni and Persian: གྲྭ ḍa ‚school', གྲྭ་པ་ (literally: scholar) ‚disciple, novice'; ཆུ་ ču, ‚water', ཆུ་པ་ ‚water-carrier' (والا پانی); རྟ་ ‚horse', རྟ་པ་ ‚horseman'; དབུས་ ‚the province of Ü', དབུས་པ་ ‚a man from Ü', ཁྱེའུ་ kyĕu ‚boy', ལོ་ lo ‚year', གཉིས་ ñi(s) ‚two', hence: ཁྱེའུ་ ལོ་གཉིས་པ་ ‚a two years' boy'. If the feminine is required མ་ is either added to, or — more commonly — used instead of, the former: དབུས་མ་ ‚a woman from Ü'; བུ་མོ་ལོ་གཉིས་མ་ ‚a two years' girl'. The performer of an action is more frequently denoted by པོ་ (or, in more solemn language, པ་པོ་), though, in conversation at least, མཁན་ Kan (Ken), is preferred; བྱེད་པ་ )ed-pa ‚to do, make; doing, making': བྱེད་པོ་, བྱེད་པ་པོ་, བྱེད་མཁན་ ‚the doer, maker'. 2. The appendices ག་ ང་ བ་ occur with a limited number of nouns only, especially the names of the seasons, with numerals, and some pronouns. (གི་ seems to be a vulgar form of pronunciation for ག་).

13. The indefinite Article. This is the numeral one (§ 13), only deprived of its prefix, viz: ཅིག་, which form it retains, if the preceding word ends with ག་ ང་ བ་, as: ཁབ་ཅིག་ kab-čig, a needle; it is changed to ཅིག་ after ས་, རས་ཅིག་ ras-šig, rā-šig, a cloth; to ཞིག་ žig (šig) in all other cases. Some authors use ཅིག་ after any termination indisriminately. It is, of course, always without accent. The articles པ་ བ་ etc. are not thrown out by the indefinite article e.g. སློབ་པ་ ‚teacher, the teacher', .སློབ་པ་ཞིག་ ‚a teacher'. It is used even after a plurality: thus, ཆུ་མིག་བཞི་ཞིག་དེ་དུ་ཡོད་ ‚there were some four wells', and even: མང་ཞིག་གདབ་སྟེ་ ‚there being a multitude of them' (from Mil). Very often it is placed after the interrogative pronouns (v. 27), and sometimes its original meaning is obscured so much that it occurs even after known and definite subjects, where one would expect the demonstrative (see f. i. Dzl. 25, 1. 28, 6. 128, 14).

Chapter II. The Substantive.

14. The Number. The Plural is denoted by adding the word རྣམས་ nam, or, more rarely, དག་ dag (ďag), ཚོ་, or a few other words, which originally were nouns with the common notion of plurality. Bus this mark of the Plural is usually omitted, when the plurality of the thing in question may be known from other circumstances, e. g. when a numeral is added: thus, མི་ ‚man', མི་རྣམས་ ‚men', མི་གསུམ་ ‚three men'. When a substantive is connected with an adjective, the plural sign is added only once, viz. after the last of the connected words: མི་བཟང་པོ་རྣམས་ ‚the good men'.

Note. The conversational language uses the words རྣམས་ etc. seldom, in WT scarcely ever (an exception s. 24. Remarks), but add, when necessary, such words as: all, many, some; two, three, seven, eight, or other suitable numerals (cf. § 20, 5.).

15. Declension. The regular addition of the different particles or single sounds by which the cases are formed is the same for all nouns, whether substantives or adjectives, pronouns or participles. Only in some cases, in the Dative and Instrumental, the noun itself is changed, when, ending in an vowel, it admits of a closer connection with the corrupted case-sign. We may reckon in Tibetan seven cases, expressive of all the relations, for which cases are used in other languages, viz: nominative and accusative, genitive, instrumental, dative, locative, ablative, terminative and vocative. 1. The unaltered form of the noun has some of the functions of our Nominative and those of the Accusative and Vocative. 2. The sign of the Genitive is ཀྱི་ after words with the finals ད་ བ་ ས་; གྱི་ after ན་ མ་ ང་ ལ་, གི་ after ག་ and ང་; after vowels i is simply added by means of an ར་ thus: འི་, which then will form a diphthong with the vowel of the noun (cf. § 6), or if, in versification, two syllables are required, i appears supported by an ཡ་ forming a distinct word. 3. The Instrumental or Agent is expressed by the particles གྱིས་ གྱིས་ or གིས་ after the respective consonants as specified above; after vowels simply ས་ is added, or, in verse, sometimes ཡིས་

Note. The instrumental is, in modern pronunciation, except in Northern Ladak, scarcely discernible from the genitive, and there are but few if any, even among lamas, who are not liable to confound both cases in writing.

In the language of common life, in WT, the different forms of the particle of the genitive and instrumental, after consonants, གྱི་ གྱིས་ etc. are never heard, but everywhere the final consonant is doubled and the vowel i added to it, thus: ལུས་, G. lus-si (Ld.), lū-i; ལམ་ G. lam-mi; གསེར་ (gold), G. ser-ri etc ; or, in other words, all nouns ending in consonants are formed like those ending with ག་ (see the example མིག་). In those ending with a vowel no irregularity takes place.

4. The Dative adds indiscriminately the postposition ལ་ la, denoting the relation of space in the widest sense, expressed by the English prepositions in, into, at, on, to. 5. The Locative is formed by the postposition ན་ na ‚in'. 6. The Ablative by ནས་ nā or ལས་ lā ‚from' (the latter especially with the meaning: from among), all three likewise without any discriminating regard to the ending of the noun. 7. The Terminative is expressed by the postpositions རུ་ or ར་ after vowels; ཏུ་ after final ག་ and ད་ and, in certain words, ན་ ར་ ལ་ ; སུ་ after ས་ ; ཏུ་ generally after ན་ ར་ ལ་ and the other final consonants. All these postpositions denote the movement to or into. 8. The Vocative is not different from the Nominative (as stated above), if not distinguished by the interjection ཀྱེ་ oh!, and can only be known from the context.

Examples of declension. As example of the declension of consonontal nouns we may take 1. for those in s (respectively d, b), ལུས་ lus, lū, ‚body'; 2. for those in m (n, r, l), ལམ་ lam ‚way'; 3. for those in g (ṅ), མིག་ mig ‚eye', — of that of vocalic nouns: 4. ཀ་ Ka or Ka-wa ‚snow'.

Chapter III.

The Adjective.

16. In the Tibetan language the Adjective is not formally distinguished from the Substantive, so that many nouns may be used one or the other way just as circumstances require.*) The declension, likewise, follows the same rules as that of substantives Only two remarks may be added here. 1. The particles པ་ མ་ པོ་ མོ་ are not very strictly used for distinguishing the gender, since even in the case of human beings པ་ and པོ་ are not seldom found connected with feminines, e. g.: བུ་མོ་མཛེས་པ་ just as well as བུ་མོ་ མཛེས་མ་ ‚a fine girl'. 2 The Adjective stands after the Substantive to which it belongs: thus, རི་མཐོན་པོ་ ri-tón-po, C: ri-tǫn-po, ‚the high hill', when, of course, the case-

*) But the vulgar language has a predilection for certain forms of Adjectives 1. those with the gerundial particle ཏེ་, as: ཚོན་ཏེ་ for the more classical ཚོན་ ‚warm'; these seem to be particularly in use in Tsan: མཛའ་སྟེ་ ‚friendly', less so in Ü. 2. compound adjectives either by simple reiteration of the root: རིལ་རིལ་ for རིལ་པོ་ ‚round', or changing the vowel at the same time: ཁྲག་ཁྲུག་ ‚complicate', བཀོང་བཀྲོང་ awry etc Often they are quadrisyllables after this form: མལ་ལ་སྤུལ་ལེ་ ‚lukewarm', ཆག་ག་ཅོག་ཅེ་ ‚medley'.

signs are joined to the Adjective: རི་མཐོན་པོའི་, of the high hill', རི་མཐོན་པོ་རྣམས་ ,the high hills' etc.

Or the Adjective may be put in the Gen. before the Substantive: མཐོན་པོའི་རི་, and then the latter only is declined: མཐོན་པོའི་རིའི་, མཐོན་པོའི་རི་རྣམས་. In the vulgar speech both of C and WT the adjective sometimes preserves, even in this position, its simple form (Nominative). A third way of expression, when both are joined together, without any article, as རྡམས་ས་ instead of ས་སྐམ་པོ་ the dry land, is rather a compound substantive, with the same difference of meaning as ,highland' and ,a high land' in English.

17. Comparison. 1. Special endings, expressive of the different degrees of comparison, as in the Aryan languages, do not exist in Tibetan. There are two particles, however, corresponding to the English than: བས་, after the final consonants ང་ ན་ མ་ and after vowels (བས་, after གྲ ད་ ན་ བ་ ས་ *), and ལས་; these particles follow the word with which another is compared (like the Hind. سے) and this then preceeds the compared one, finally follows the adjective in the positive: ཏ་བས་ (or ལས་) ཁྱི་རྒྱང་བ་ཡིན་ ,horse — than dog small is', just as in Hindūstāni: گھوڑی سی کتّا چھوٹا ہے. But also the position usual in our European languages occurs, thus: རབ་དུ་འབྱུང་བའི་བསོད་ནམས་དེ་རབ་རྒྱས་པོ་བས་འཕང་རྩ་མཁྱེ་དེ་ ‚the merit of becoming a priest is relatively higher that mount Meru'; བོད་ཀྱི་རྒྱལ་པོ་གཞན་ལས་ཆེ་བ་ཡིན་ནོ་ ‚the king of Tibet is greater than the other ones'. The particle བས་ (ལས་) may be put, in the same manner, after adverbs. Thus, སྤྱན་བས་གསལ་བར་མཐོང་བར་གྱུར་ཏོ་ ‚(their eyes) became more keen-sighted than before'. Or, after infinitives, གཞན་སོང་བ་བས་ཀུ་བོས་སོང་ན་ཕན་ ‚it is better (for him) that his younger brother should go (with him) than another'. ལས་ for itself has the meaning of ‚more than', with the negative: ‚not more than', ‚only'; thus: ང་ལ་སྲང་གཉིས་ལས་ནི་མི་དགོས་ ‚more than two ounces I do not want' (cf. vulg. WT: གསུམ་མན་ན་མེད་ ‚there are not more than (only) three'); or ‚nothing but', ‚only', རི་དྭགས་ཤོར་བ་ལས་དགའ་བ་མེད་ ‚there is no pleasure (for us) but hunting, h. is our only pl'.

2. An Adverb which augments the notion of the adjective itself, is རྒྱས་པར་ ‚more'; this can be added ad libitum: དཔལ་ཀྱི་རྒྱས་པར་རྒྱང་བ་ཡིན་.

3. Another adverb, རེ་ means: ‚more and more', ‚gradually more', e.g. རེ་ཉེ་རེ་ཉེ་སོང་སྟེ་ ‚going nearer and nearer'.

4. ‚The elder — the younger' e. g. of two brothers, is simply expressed by: ‚the great — the little'. 5. The Superlative is paraphrased by the same means: ཀུན་ལས་ཆེན་པོ་ or ཐམས་ཅད་བས་ཆེན་པོ་ ‚greater than all'. Or it is expressed in the following manner: ཡུལ་གྱི་རྒྱལ་པོ་འི་ནང་ན་རྒྱལ་པོ་གང་ཆེ་ ‚of (among) the kings of the country which one is the greatest (prop. great)?'. Adverbs for expressing high degrees are: ཤིན་དུ་ or རབ་ཏུ་ ‚very', ཀུན་ཏུ་ ‚all', ཡོངས་སུ་ ‚quite', མཆོག་ཏུ་ ‚exceedingly' etc.

Note. The colloquial language of WT uses སང་ instead of བས་ or ལས་, and མ་ (mā, always with a strong emphasis, perhaps a mutilated form of མང་ས་ ‚much') or མང་པོ་ instead of ཤིན་དུ་, whereas that of CT employs ལས་ in the former case, but repeats the adjective in the latter, so that ‚very large' is expressed in books by ཤིན་དུ་ཆེན་པོ་, in speaking, in WT by má čén-po, in CT by čeni-po čem-po.

1 000 000	১০০০০০০	ས་ཡ་ sa-ya
10 000 000	১০০০০০০০	བྱེ་བ་ je-wa

There are, as in Sanscrit, names for many more powers of 10, but they are seldom used.

19. Ordinals. དང་པོ་ W: daṅ-po, C: d° ‚the first', the rest are simply formed by adding པ་ to the cardinals, as: གཉིས་པ་, the second etc.; the 21. is ཉེ་གཅིག་གཅོད་པ་ ‚the twenty-oneth', not, as in English, ‚the twenty first'.

20. Remarks. 1. The smaller number postponed indicates, as is seen in § 18, addition, the reverse — multiplication: བཅུ་གསུམ་ 13, སུམ་ཅུ་ 30; but in the latter case the three first numerals are changed to ཚེག་, ཉེ་, སུམ་; and བཅུ་, as the second part of a compound after consonants, is spelled ཅུ་. 2. The words ཕྲག་པ་ (after full tens up to one hundred), ཐུག་ (after hundreds and thousands*)),

*) ཐུག་ is used especially if the number counting the hundreds,

ཆོ་ (with still greater numbers), are optional but frequent additions. རྒྱ་ is common instead of དང་ ‚and', to connect units with tens (s. § 18), but it occurs also with hundreds and thousands, and not seldom together with དང་, e.g. སྟོང་ དང་རྒྱ་གཉིས་, 1002. It is used also instead of ཕྲག་དཔ་, as: བཅུ་རྒྱ་ ten, ཉི་ཤུ་རྒྱ་ twenty; often it is standing alone for ཉི་ཤུ་རྒྱ་, as: རྒྱ་གཉིས་, twenty two. This latter custom may have caused the belief, common even among educated readers in C and WT, that རྒྱ་ must mean twenty, even when connecting a hundred or thousand to a unit, as they will usually understand the above mentioned number in the sense of 1022 instead of 1002; but the authority of printed books, wherever the exact number can be verified from other circumstances, does not confirm this, which would indeed be a sadly ambiguous phraseology. 3. ཀ་ added to a cardinal number means conjunction: གཉིས་ཀ་, the two together, both; གསུམ་ཀ་, the three together, all three etc. དེ་ means either the same, or represents the definite article, indicating that the number has been already mentioned, e.g. མི་ལྔ་ ... བདུད་དེ། །མི་ལྔ་དེ་བསྒྲེབ་སྟེ་ ..., five men were sent ... The five men arriving etc. 4. ད་ is used, besides thousands etc. follows: thus, སྟོང་ཕྲག་ཉི་ཤུ་ ‚of thousands: twenty, 20 000'; ཁྲི་ཕྲག་དུ་མ་ ‚many ten-thousands'.

forming Ordinals, to express the notion of ‚containing', e. g. ཡི་གེ་དྲུག་པ་ ‚that containing six letters', viz. the famous formula: ཨོཾ་མ་ཎི་པ་དྨེ་ཧཱུྃ་ om maṇi padme hum; སུམ་ཅུ་པ་, ‚that containing thirty (letters)', the Tibetan alphabet. 5. Such combinations as གཉིས་གསུམ་ etc. are frequently used in common life, so denote a number approximately, ‚two or three or so' (cf. § 14 Note).

21. Distributive numerals. They are expressed by repetition as in Hind: དྲུག་དྲུག་ each time six, six for each etc. In composed numerals only the last member is repeated, thus སུམ་ཅུ་རྩ་གཉིས་གཉིས་ each time thirty two.

22. Adverbial numerals. 1. Firstly, secondly etc. are formed from the ordinals as every Adverb is from an Adjective, viz. by adding the letter ར་, དང་པོར་, གཉིས་པར་ etc. (s. § 41). 2. Multiplicative adverbs, ‚once', ‚twice' etc., are expressed by putting ལན་ ‚times' before the cardinal: ལན་གཅིག་, ལན་གཉིས་, W: lan-čig, lan-ñi(s), C: län-čig, län-ñī ‚once, twice' etc.; seldom ཆོར་, ཚར་, སྐབས་ with the same meaning as ལན་.

23. Fractional numerals are formed by adding ཆ་ ‚part': thus, བརྒྱའི་ཆ་ ‚a hundredth part' etc., but also: བང་མཛོད་གསུམ་ཆ་ཞིག་ ‚one third of the treasury'.

Chapter V.

Pronouns.

24. Personal Pronouns. First person: ང་ ṅa; ངེད་ ṅed, ṅĕ'; ངོས་ ṅos (Ld); ཁོ་བོ་ ko-wo, masc., and ཁོ་མོ་ ko-mo, fem.; བདག་ dag ‚self' — ‚I'; Second person: ཁྱོད་ kyod (kyö'), ཁྱེད་ kyed (kyĕ') ‚thou, you'; Third person: ཁོ་ ko, ཁོང་ koṅ — ‚he, she, it'.

The plural is formed by adding ཚོ་, རྣམས་, ཚོ་རྣམས་ or ཀུན་, but very often, if circumstances show the meaning with sufficient certainty, the sign of the plural is altogether omitted. The declension is the same as that of the substantives.

Remarks: ང་ is the most common and can be used by every body; ངེད་ seems to be preferred in elegant speech (s. Note); ངོས་ is very common in modern letter writing, at least in WT; བདག་ ‚self', when speaking to superior persons occurs very often in books, but has disappeared from common speech, except in the province of Tsaṅ (Ṭaśi-lhunpo) as also the following; ཁོ་བོ་, ཁོ་མོ་ in easy conversation with persons of equal rank, or to inferiors.

2. person. ཁྱོད་ is used in books in addressing even the highest persons, but in modern conversation only among equals or to inferiors; ཁྱེད་ is elegant and respectful, especially in books. —

3. person. ཁོ་ seldom occurs in books, where the demonstr. pron. ཏེ་ (§ 26) is generally used instead; ཁོང་ is common to both the written and the spoken language, and used, at least in the latter, as respectful. But it must be remarked that the pronoun of the third person is in most cases entirely omitted, even when there is a change of subject. — Instead of ཁ་ཅག་ and ཁྱོད་ཅག་ the people of WT use ཁ་ལོ་ and ཁྱོ་ལོ་; the vulgar plural of ཁོ་ is ཁོ་ད་. —

To each of these pronouns may be added: རང་ raṅ or ཉིད་ ñid, ñi' ‚self', and in conversational language ཁ་རང་, ཁྱོད་རང་, ཁོ་རང་ are, perhaps, even more frequently used than the simple forms, without any difference in the meaning. ཉིད་ is more prevalent in books, except the compound ཉི་རང་ ñi-raṅ, which is in modern speech the usual respectful pronoun of address, like ‚Sie' in German.

Note. The predilection of Eastern Asiatics for a system of ceremonials in the language is met with also in Tibetan. There is one separate class of words, which must be used in reference to the honoured person, when spoken to as well as when spoken of. To this class belong, besides the pronouns ཉི་རང་, ཁྱེད་, ཁོང་, all the respectful terms by which the body or soul, or parts of the same, and all things or persons pertaining to such a person, and even his actions, must be called. The notions, most frequently occurring. have special expressions, as སྐུ་(s)ku, instead of ལུས་ lus, lū, ‚body'; དབུ་ u, i. o. མགོ་ go ‚head'; ཐུགས་ tug(s) (Ü: tū), i. o. སེམས་ sem(s) ‚soul', or ཡིད་ yid, yi', ‚mind'; ཡབ་ yab, i. o. པ་ (vulg: ཨ་པ་), ‚father'; ན་བཟའ་ na-za, i. o. གོས་ gos, gö, ‚coat', ‚dress'; ཆིབས་ čib(s), i. o. དུ་ (r)ta, sta ‚horse'; བཞུགས་པ་ žug(s)-pa (Ü: žū-pa), i. o. སྡོད་པ་ dod-pa, dö'-pa ‚to sit'; མཛད་པ་ dzad-pa, dzä'-pa i. o. བྱེད་པ་ jed-pa, jhé'-pa ‚to make' and many others. If there is no such special word, any substantive may be rendered respectful by adding སྐུ་ or ཐུགས་ respectively (so, སྐུ་ཚེ་ i. o. ཚེ་ ‚lifetime'; ཐུགས་ཁྲོ་བ་ i. o. ཁྲོ་བ་ ‚anger') any verb by adding མཛད་པ་, according to 39, 1. Another class of what might be called elegant terms are to be used when conversing with an honoured person (or also by a high person himself in his own speech), such as བགྱིད་པ་ gyid-pa, gyi'-pa ‚to do'; མཆིས་པ་ či-pa, ‚to be'; ལྟད་དུ་ lad-du, lä'-du i. o. ཕྱིར་དུ་ ‚for the sake of', without reference to the said person himself. Even uneducated people know, and make use of, most of the ‚respectful' terms, but the merely ‚elegant' ones are, at least in WT, seldom or never heard in conversation.

25. Possessive pronouns. The Possessive is simply expressed by the Genitive of the Personal, ཁའི་, ཁྱོད་ཀྱི་ etc. ‚His', ‚her', ‚its', when referring to the acting subject (suus), must be expressed by རང་གི་ or རྐེད་ཀྱི་ ‚his own'; otherwise (ejus) by ཁའི་, ཁང་གི་, དེའི་. In C, in the latter case, ང་ཅན་, ཁྱོད་ཅན་, ཁོ་ཅན་ are used.

26. Reflective and Reciprocal pronouns. 1. The Reflective pronoun, ‚myself', ‚yourself' etc. is expressed by རང་, རྐེད་, also བདག་. But in the case of the same person being the subject and object of an action, it must be paraphrased, so for ‚he precipitated himself from the rock' must be said ‚he precipitated his own body etc.' རང་གི་ལུས་; for ‚he rebuked himself' — ‚he rebuked his own soul' རང་གི་སེམས་ — 2. The reciprocal pronoun ‚each other' or ‚one another' is rendered by ‚one — one', as གཅིག་གིས་གཅིག་བསད་ ‚by one one was killed', ‚they killed one another'; གཅིག་ལ་ གཅིག་ན་རེ་ ‚to one one said', ‚they said to each other'.

27. Demonstrative pronouns. 1. འདི་ di, ‚this'; དེ་ de, dhe ‚that' are those most frequently used, both in books and speaking. The Plural is generally formed by དག་, but also by རྣམས་ and ཚོ་. More emphatical are འདི་ཀ་, འདི་ཁ་, འདི་ཀོ་, འདི་ཁོ་, ‚just this', ‚this same'; དེ་ཀ་ etc. ‚that same'. — The vulgar dialect also uses ཧ་གྱི་ hă-gyi and ཕ་གྱི་ pha-gyi for ‚that', ‚yonder', and, in WT, ཨེ་, ཨེ་པོ་ for ‚this' and ཡ་ for ‚that'; ཕ་གྱི་ occurs even in books. — 2. It is worth remarking that the distinction of the nearer and remoter relation is, even in common language, scrupulously observed. If reference is made to an object already mentioned, དེ་ is used; if to something following, འདི་; e.g. དེ་སྐད་ཅེས་སྨྲས་སོ་ ‚that speech he said', ‚thus he said'; འདི་སྐད་ཅེས་སྨྲས་པ་ ‚this speech he said', ‚he said thus, spoke the following words'.

28. Interrogative pronouns. They are སུ་ su ‚who?'; གང་ gaṅ, gh. ‚which?'; ཅི་ ci ‚what?'; to these the indefinite article ཞིག་ is often added, སུ་ཞིག་ etc. The two former can also assume the plural termination དག་, སུ་དག་, གང་དག་. — In CT གང་ is frequently used instead of ཅི་

29. Relative pronouns. These are almost entirely wanting in the Tibetan language, and our subordinate relative clauses must be expressed by Participles und Gerunds, or a new independent sentence must be begun. The participle, in such a case, is treated quite as an adjective, being put either in the Genitive before the substantive, or, in the Nominative, after: འཇོལ་བའི་ཚོང་པ་རྣམས་ ‚the merchants who would go (with him)'; ཉག་གཡག་གསུམ་བརྒྱས་པ་ ‚the cord on which turquoises are strung'; འཇུམ་མ་མང་པོ་ཡོང་བ་ཞིག་

‚one who gets (unto whom come) many presents'. Cf. also 33. Only those indefinite sentences which in English are introduced by ‚he who', ‚who ever', ‚that which', ‚what' etc. can be adequately expressed in Tibetan, by using the interrogative pronouns with the participle (seldom the naked root) of the verb, or adding ཏེ་ (‚if —' v. 41, A. 4.) to the latter. Instead of ཅི་ in this case ཇི་ is written more correctly. Thus: སུ་ལ་དམ་བའི་ཚོས་མཆིས་པ་བདག་ལ་སྟོན་པར་གྱུར་ན་ ‚if anybody who possesses the good faith teach it me'; ཁྱོད་སུ་འགྲོ་བ་དག་ཀྱང་འགྲོགས་ཏེ་ ‚when those of you who wish to go are assembled'; ནོར་བུ་རིན་པོ་ཆེ་འདི་ཇི་འདོད་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་ཆར་བཞིན་དུ་འབེབས་སོ་ ‚this jewel (cintāmaṇi) will make come down like rain whatever is wished for'; ཁྱོད་ཅི་ཟེར་ཁྱོད་ཇི་སྐད་པ་བཞིན་དུ་བྱའོ་ ‚whatever you way say and ask of me according to that I will act, or I will grant you whatever you ask'. བདག་གིས་མཐུ་ཡོད་པས་རྒྱ་མཚོའི་ཆུ་བཏུབས་ཏེ་ ‚having scooped the water of the sea with what force I have'; རིན་པོ་ཆེ་ཇི་ལྟ་བུ་ཞིག་རྙེད་པ་བདག་ལ་བསྟན་དུ་གསོལ་ ‚I beg you to show me what sort of jewel you have found (got)'; རྐང་གྲི་རྗེས་གང་རིགས་པར་གཤེར་གྱི་བྱེ་མར་གྱུར་ཏོ་ ‚his footprints, in what place soever they fell (v. lex. s. v. རིགས་), became gold-sand'.

But the participle is treated as if no relative was preceding, thus སྐད་ཅི་སྨྲས་པ་ལས་མ་བྲོག་སོ་ ‚he did not recede from (recall) the word he had spoken before'; vulg., WT, ང་གང་བསྡད་པའི་ཁང་མིག་ ‚the room where I sat'.

Chapter VI.

The Verb.

30. Introductory remarks. The Tibetan verb must be regarded as denoting, not an action, or suffering, or condition of any subject, but merely a coming to pass, or, in other words, they are all impersonal verbs, like taedet, miseret etc. in Latin, or it suits etc. in English. Therefore they are destitute of what is called in our own languages the active and passive voice, as well as of the discrimination of persons, and show nothing beyond a rather poor capability of expressing the most indispensable distinctions of tense and mood. From the same reason the acting subject of a transitive verb must regularly appear in the Instrumental case, as the case of the subject of a neutral verb, — which, in European languages, is the Nominative —, ought to be regarded, from a Tibetan point of view, as Accusative expressing the object of an impersonal verb, just as ‚poenitet me' is translated by ‚I repent'. But it will perhaps be easier to say: The subject of a transitive verb, in Tibetan, assumes regularly the form of the instrumental, of a neutral verb that of the nominative which is the same as the accusative. Thus, དར་ཁྲོད་དུང་ is properly: རྡེབ་ a beating happens, ཁྱོད་ regarding you, ངས་ by me = I beat you. In common life the object has often the form of the dative, ཁྱོད་ལ་, to facilitate the comprehension. But often, in modern talk as well as in the classical literature, the acting subject, if known as such from the context, retains its Nominative form. Especially the verba loquendi are apt to admit this slight irregularity.

31. Inflection of verbs. This is done in three different ways:

a) by changing the shape of the root. Such different shapes are, at most, four in number, which may be called, according to the tenses of our own grammar to which they correspond, the Present-, Perfect-, Future-, and Imperative-roots; e. g. of the Present-root གཏོང་བ་ ‚to give' the Perfect root is བདང་, the Future-root གཏང་, the Imperative root ཐོང་; of འཚག་པ་ ‚to filter, bolt' respectively: བཙག་ས་ tsag(s) (Ü: tsă), དཙག་ tsag, ཚོག་ tsog. The Present root, which implies duration, is also occasionally used for the Imperfect (in the sense of the Latin and Greek languages) and Future tenses. It is obvious, from the above mentioned instances, that the inflection of the root consists partly in alterations of the prefixed letters (so, if the Perfect likes the prefixed ད, the Future will have ག or retain the ད), partly in adding a final ས་ (to the Perfect and Imperative), partly in changing the vowel (particularly in the Imperative). But also the consonants of the root itself are changed sometimes: so the aspirates are often converted in the Perfet and Future into their surds, besides other more irregular changes. Only a limited number of verbs, however, are possessed of all the four roots, some cannot assume more than three, some two, and a great many have only one. To make up in some measure for this deficiency:

b) some auxiliary verbs have been made available: for the Present tense ཡོད་, འདུག་, ལགས་ and others, all of which mean ‚to be' (§ 39); for the Perfect ཙོང་, རེད་, སོང་; for the Future འགྱུར་, འོང་, and the substantive རྒྱུ་

c) By adding various monosyllabic affixes, the Infinitive, Participles, and Gerunds are formed. These affixes as well as the auxiliary verbs are connected partly with the root, partly with the Infinitive, resp. its terminative, partly with the Participle.

Note. The spoken language, at least in WT, acknowledges even in four-rooted verbs seldom more than the Perfect root.

32. The Infinitive mood. The syllables པ་ pa or, after the final consonants ང་ ན་ མ་ and vowels, བ་ wa are added to the root, whereby it assumes all the qualities and powers of a noun. In verbs of more roots than one, each of them can, of course, in this way be converted into a substantive, or, in other words, each tense has its Infinitive, except the Imperative. From one-rooted verbs the different Infinitives may be formed by the above mentioned auxiliaries: thus, the Inf. Perf., by adding ཡོད་པ་ to the Infinitive of the verb in question, or ཚར་བ་, ཟིན་པ་, སོང་བ་ to the root, and the Inf. Fut. by adding འགྱུར་བ་ to the Supine (terminative of the infinitive, 41.B) thus, མཐོང་བར་འགྱུར་བ་ visurum esse, visum iri.

Note. The spoken language uses, in WT almost exclusively, a termination pronounced càs in Turig and Balti, càs, cè in Ladak, cè in Lahoul etc., ja in Kunawar, sè in Tsan etc., the etymology of which is doubtful, as it is not to be found in any printed book. Lamas in Ladak and Lahoul spell it ཅེས་.

.33. The Participle. 1. This is in the written language entirely like the Infinitive ཡིན་པ་ ‚being', གྱིང་བ་ ‚giving', བྱིང་བ་ ‚having given'. — 2. Whether the meaning is active and passive, however, can only be inferred from the context, e. g. བྱིང་བའི་དངུལ་ is of course ‚the money given', but དངུལ་བྱིང་བའི་མི་ ‚the man having given, or, that has given, the money'; the Tibetan participle means nothing but that the action or condition is connected in some way with a person or thing. But it is natural that in the present participle the active notion should be the more frequent one, as well as in the preterit the passive. — 3. In the instance of Intensive verbs (formed with བྱེད་པ་ 38.1) the usage of scientific authors has strictly connected the active sense with those formed with བྱེད་, as གྱིང་བྱེད་ ton-jed, ton-jĕ', instead of གྱིང་བར་བྱེད་པ་, doing give, giving, giver, and the passive to those with ཀྱི་, as གཏོང་བྱ་ ton ja, ton ǰa i. e. གཏོང་བར་བྱ་བ་ ‚to be given' (dandus), བྱ་བ་དང་བྱ་བ་མ་ཡིན་པ་སྟོན་པ་ ‚to teach the things to be done and not to be done' (Thgy). — 4. In certain cases, especially with verbs that mean: to say, ask etc. the Participle is used before the words of the speech, where we should use the Imperfect: རྒྱལ་པོས་སྨྲས་པ་ ‚the king said . .'.

Note. In the spoken language, of WT at least, the Participle is formed by མ་བས་, in the active sense as well as the passive (whereas in books this syllable occurs only in the meaning of the performer of an action s. 12. 1.): དངུལ་བདང་མ་བས་གྱི་མི་ ńul tan Ḱan-ni mi (s. 15, Note) ‚the man giving the money', བདང་མ་བས་གྱི་དངུལ་ ‚the money given'. འདས་ཁ་གོན་ཚས་བཙོང་མ་བས་གྱི་བླ་མ་ ‚the lama who brought a coat for sale the other day'. བུ་མོ་རྗེ་བཙུན་ལ་སྒོ་ཁྲང་སྟོན་མ་བས་དེ་ ‚the girl who had shewn the door to his reverence' (Mil). The future participle is represented, just as in English, by the Infinitive (32, Note), so that ‚the sheep to be killed', (in books གསོད་པར་བྱ་བའི་ལུག་ or གསོད་བྱའི་ལུག་) is expressed, in the most Western provinces, by: sád ċas-si lug, Lad.: sád-ċes-si lug, Lah. etc.: sád ċeï lug, Tsan: sö̈-ǡ-kyi lug གཟོད་ཤེས་ཀྱི་ལུག་, and, most like the classical language, in Kun.: sód ǰą̄ lug.

34. The finite verb. 1. The principal verb of a sentence, which always closes it (48.) receives in written Tibetan in most cases a certain mark, by which the end of a period may be known. This is, in affirmative sentences, the vowel o (called by the grammarians: སྒྲ་སྦྱོར་བ་), in interrogative ones the syllable am. Before both the closing consonant of the verb is repeated, or, if it ends with a vowel, འོ་ and འམ་ are written. The Perfect of the verbs ending in ན་ ར་ ལ་, which formerly had a ད་ as second final — དཔ་དྲག་ —, assume ཏོ་ and ཏམ་. — 2. These additional syllables are omitted a) in imperative sentences, b) in the latter member of a double question, c) when the question is expressed already by an interrogative pronoun or adverb, d) in coordinate members of a period, with exception of the last one, e) commonly, when the principal verb is the verb substantive ཡིན་, ཡོད་ etc. (40. 1.).

Examples. a) སོང་ ‚go!‘, འདིར་ཤོག་ ‚come here!‘. — b) མཐོང་ངམ་མི་མཐོང་ ‚do you see or not?‘ — c) དེར་སུ་ཡོད་ ‚who is there?‘, ཅིག་བསྡོད་ ‚when did (he, you etc.) arrive?‘. — d) ཁང་པ་ཤིག །མི་བསད། གྲོང་ཁྱེར་ཚང་མ་མེད་པར་བྱས་སོ། ‚the houses were destroyed, the men killed, the whole town annihilated‘. — e) གཙང་པའི་བྱེ་མ་ལ་གསེར་ཡོད། ‚in the sand of the river is gold‘.

Note. In conversation the o is generally omitted, and the m of the interrogative termination dropped, so that merely the vowel a is heard, e. g. the question མཐོང་ངམ་ ‚do (you) see' and the answer མཐོང་ངོ་ ‚(I) see', are commonly spoken in WT: ṭoṅ-ṅa? ṭoṅ.

35. Present Tenses. 1. Simple Present Tense. This is the simple root of the verb, which always will be found in the dictionary; in WT, as mentioned above, of verbs with more than one root, only the Perfect root is in use; if, therefore, stress is laid on the Present signification, recourse must be had te one of the following compositions, (s. 31. and Note). Thus, མཐོང་ ‚(I, thou, he etc.) see, seest etc.', གཏོང་ ‚(I etc.) give' through all persons; in the end of a sentence: མཐོང་ངོ། གཏོང་ངོ།

2. Compound Present Tenses. a) འདུག་ (s. 40, 1) is added to the root: མཐོང་འདུག་ ‚(I) see', བདང་འདུག་ ‚(I) give'. This is common in the dialect of WT especially. — b) The Participle connected with ཡིན་, མཐོང་བ་ཡིན་ ‚(I) see'. In WT this, of course, is changed to མཐོང་མཁན་ཡིན་ — c) One of the Gerunds (41, A) with ཡོད་ or འདུག་, as མཐོང་སྟེ་ (or ནས་ or ཀི་ or ཞིང་), འདུག་ or ཡོད་ ‚(I) see, am seeing'; it must, however, be remarked that both ways of expression, b) and c), are not very frequent. — d) གིན་ཡོད་ or འདུག་ is the proper form for the compound English present: མཐོང་གིན་འདུག་ ‚(I) am seeing‘, འབྲི་གིན་ འདུག་ ‚(I) am writing (just now)‘.

36. Preterit Tenses. 1. Simple Preterit, Perfect or Aorist Tense; this is the Perfect root: བདུང་, at the close of the sentence བདུང་ངོ། ‚gave, have given, was given‘; in one-rooted verbs it has, of course, the same form as the present: མཐོང་(ངོ་) ‚saw, have, or was, seen‘. This is the usual narrative tense like the Greek Aorist or French Parfait défini. — 2. Compound Preterit Tenses. — a) The root with རོང་, བདུང་རོང་ ‚have given, gave, was given‘; མཐོང་རོང་ ‚have seen, saw, was seen‘; rarely met with in books, but in general use in the conversation of WT. In CT བྱུང་ ǰun is used in a similar way: ཁྱི་རྨུག་བྱུང་ ‚the dog has bit‘.— b) The root with རེན་ (more in books), or ཚད་ (more in common language), the true Perfect as the tense of accomplished action: བདུང་རེན་, བདུང་ཚད་ ‚have given etc.‘, ‚the action of giving is past‘, མི་རོང་ཚད་ ‚the man has already left. — c) The Participle connected with ཡིན་ occurs more frequently in the past sense than otherwise. Here, in the common talk of WT, ད་ is used, even in those cases where the books have བ་, ཡི་གེ་བཀལ་བ་ཡིན་ yi-ge kál-pa ynn, or, contracted, kál-pen, ‚the letter has been sent off‘, in books: བཀལ་བ་ཡིན་ (s. 11, Note), even བླ་བདུངས་པ་ཡིན་ la táṅs-pa yin, táṅs-pen, ‚the wages have been paid' i. o. བདངས་བ་ཡིན་. — d) Gerunds in ཏེ་ (WT) or ནས་ (CT) with ཡོད་ or འདུག་ (the same as 35. 2. c); also (in Ü Tsaṅ and later books) the mere Perfect root with ཡོད་, the ཏེ་ or ནས་ being dropped: སོང་ཡོད་ ‚has gone'.

37. Future Tenses. 1. Simple Future. The Future-root, གཏོང་(ངོ་) ‚shall, will give, be given'. — 2. Compound Future. a) The auxiliary verb འགྱུར་བ་ (to grow, become) added to the Terminative case of the Infinitive: གཏོང་བར་འགྱུར་(རོ་) ‚shall, will give, be given', མཐོང་བར་འགྱུར་(རོ་) ‚shall, will see, be seen'. This is the most common, and, together with the Simple Future and the Intensive (39.), ...བར་བྱེད་, the only one in use with the early classical authors in all cases where a special Future-root is wanted, and even where this exists. It dissappears, however, gradually from the literature of the later period, and is replaced by the two following compositions. — b) རྒྱུ་ཡིན་ connected with the root: མཐོང་རྒྱུ་ཡིན་ ‚shall, will see', གཏོང་རྒྱུ་ཡིན་ ‚shall, will give' etc. (རྒྱུ་ is originally a substantive, meaning material, cause, occasion). — c) the root with འོང་ or ཡོང་, སྐྱེབ་ཡོང་ ‚will arrive', or, i. o. the root, the Term. Inf., སྐྱེབ་པར་འོང་. — Both b) and c) are even now in common use in CT, whereas in WT: — d) ཡིན་ connected with the root is the general form: མཐོང་ཡིན་ ton yin, vulg.: tónin ‚shall, will see', བདང་ཡིན་ tánin ‚shall, will give', བཀལ་ཡིན་ kállin ‚will send', ཚོ་ཡིན་ ča yin, ča'in, čăn ‚will go'. — e) In books the Participle with ཡིན་ (35. 2. b, 36. 2 c) occurs sometimes also as Future.

38. Imperative mood. 1. This is usually the shortest possible form of the verb, which often loses its prefixed letters, though in some instances a final ས་ is added. In many verbs with the vowel a, and in some with e these vowels are changed into o, besides other alterations of the consonants. Particularly often the surds or sonants of the other tense-roots are changed to their aspirates in the Imperative. Thus, ཐོང་ ‚give!', from གདོང་བ་; ལྟོས་ Ld: ltos, CT: tø ‚look!', from ལྟ་བ་; ཐོབ་ ‚throw!', from འདེབས་པ་. In one-rooted verbs it is, of course, like the Present, but it can always be sufficiently distinguished by adding the particle ཅིག་ (ཤིག་ or ཞིག་, according to 13.). This is used in the classical literature indiscriminately in addressing the highest and the lowest persons (or, in other words, as well to command, as to pray), but according to the modern custom of CT only when addressing servants and inferior people. — 2. In forbidding, the Present-root is used with the negative particle མ་, མ་གདོང་ ‚do not give!', མ་ལྟ་ ‚do not look!', མ་འདེབས་ ,do not throw!' — 3. In praying or wishing (Precative or Optative) either the same forms as under 1. are used, or the Imperatives of འབྱོང་བ་ ,to come' or འོང་ ,to come' (the latter, འོག་, of a quite different root) are connected with the Termin. Infin. མཐོང་བར་ གྱུར་ཅིག་ or འོག་ཅིག་ ,may (I, you, he etc.) see!' — 4. In none of the three a person is indicated, but it is natural that in commanding and forbidding the subject will be the second, sometimes the third person; in the precative also the first person can be understood.

Note. The common language of WT, acknowledging only the Perfect-root, changes nothing but the vowel: བོད་ ,give!' from བཏང་ཅེས་; ལྟོས་ ,look!' from ལྟ་ཅེས་; བོད་ ,throw!' from བཏབ་ཅེས་ (Perf. of འདེབས་པ་). Instead of ཅིག་, which is not much used, བོད་ (give!) is often added to the roots of other verbs (s. 39), thus, བཏོན་བོད་ ton ton ,take out!' from བཏོན་ཅེས་ (འདོན་པ་). Or the Imperative is paraphrased by དགོས་ gos (Ld). gō, goi ,must', added to the root of the verb: བསད་དགོས་ ,must be killed'. — In CT the changing of the vowel seems to be usually omitted, but the ཅིག་ is more used. Here, also, the Perfect root is not so exclusively preferred.

39. Intensive verbs. 1. Very frequent in books is the connection of the four-rooted verb བྱེད་པ་ (Pf. བྱས་, Fut. བྱ་, Imp. བྱོས་) ‚to do', elegantly བགྱིད་པ་ (Pf. བགྱིས་, Fut. བགྱི་, Imp. གྱིས་), respectfully མཛད་པ་ (Imp. མཛོད་) with the Term. Inf. of another verb, to intensify the action of the latter. By this means not only one-rooted verbs can be made to participate in the advantages of the four-rooted, as མཐོང་བར་བྱེད་ ‚see', མཐོང་བར་བྱས་ ‚saw', མཐོང་བར་བྱ་ ‚shall, will see', མཐོང་བར་བྱོས་ ‚see!', but also several other periphrastical phrases are gained for speaking more precisely than otherwise would be possible. The Future tense བྱ(འི་)་ serves, besides its proper notion of futurity, particularly to express the English auxiliaries ‚must, ought etc.': thus, བརྗོད་བར་མི་བྱའོ་ ‚must not be uttered, ought not to be uttered', sometimes it may be translated by the Imperative mood. The spoken language, at least of WT, is devoid of this convenience, and possesses nothing of the kind except the above mentioned intensive form of the Imperative, formed by བདོང་ (s. 38., Note). — 2. Another class of intensive verbs are formed by connecting two synonymes, as འཇིགས་སྐྲག་པ་ ‚to be afraid', literally ‚to be fear-frightened', and other similar ones.

40. Substantive and Auxiliary Verbs. 1. To be a) ཡིན་པ་, in elegant and respectful speech ལགས་པ་ lag-pa, Ü: lā-pa (the latter word never used in WT) is the mere means of connecting the attribute with its subject, as: མི་འདི་ལ་བྱག་པ་ཡིན་ ‚this man is a Ladakee', དེ་ཁྱོད་ལགས་སམ་ ‚is it you, Sir?'. Therefore the question སུ་ཡིན་ is to be understood ‚who are you' or ‚who is he' etc., the personal pronoun being often let to be guessed. — ཡིན་ itself is often omitted in daily life in WT as well as in poetry, e.g. ཇི་ཁྲིད་རྡུམ་ཆེ་ཆེ་ ‚this load (is) very heavy' WT. Negatively: མ་ཡིན་, མིན་ vulg. མན་, resp. མ་ལགས་. — b) ཡོད་པ་ yod-pa, yö'-pa, eleg. མཆིས་པ་ či-pa, resp. བཞུགས་པ་ žug(s)-pa, Ü: žū-pa, negat.: མེད་, མ་མཆིས་, མི་བཞུགས་ means ‚to exist', or ‚to be present', ‚to be found at a place', therefore the question སུ་ཡོད་ is to be understood: ‚Who is here? Who is there?' — ཡོད་ and བཞུགས་པ་ are in general use, མཆིས་པ་ is seldom heard. When connected with the Dative of a substantive it replaces the English ‚to have, to have got', as: ང་ལ་དངུལ་ཡོད་ ‚I have money'; ང་ལ་རྙག་ཡོད་ ‚I have pain'. In this case the respectful term is not བཞུགས་པ་ but མངའ་བ་ ña-wa: རྒྱལ་པོ་ལ་སྐྱོན་མི་མངའ་འམ་ ‚has not the King an indisposition?' i. e. ‚is Your Majesty ill?'. — c) འདུག་པ་ dug-pa (eleg. གདའ་བ་ is seldom heard), resp. བཞུགས་པ་, ‚to be present, stay, be found at a place'; negat.

མེ་འདུག་. Both འདུག་པ་ and ཡོད་པ་ can be used instead of ཡིན་པ་, though not this instead of them. — d) རེད་པ་ rĕ'-pa = འདུག་པ་, negat. མ་རེད་ in Spiti and CT, seldom in books. — e) མོད་པ་ mod-pa, mŏ'-pa has a somewhat emphatical sense: ‚to be (something) in a high degree', ‚to be (somehow) in plenty'. It occurs most frequently in the Gerund with ཀྱི་ (41.), when it frequently has the sense of ‚though', but never with a negative.— f) སྣང་བ་ naṅ-wa, originally ‚to appear, to be visible, extant', negat. མི་སྣང་. Sometimes in books, and common in certain districts. — g) In books the concluding o (34.) is, moreover, found to represent the verb ‚to be' in all its meanings, and is capable of being connected with words of all classes besides verbs, e. g. དང་པོ་འོ་ ‚is the first' = དང་པོ་ཡིན་. In a similar manner also the ཅིག་ of the Imperative (38.) implies the verb ‚to be'. — h) The Preterit root for all these verbs is སོང་ soṅ ‚was, has been', and besides also ‚has gone, become', which is its original meaning. — For the use of these verbs as auxiliaries s. 35. sq.

2. འགྱུར་བ་ originally ‚to be changed, turned into something' then ‚to become, to grow', auxiliary for the Future tense in the old classical language, as mentioned in 37. Since this can be considered as the intransitive or passive notion, opposite to བྱེད་པ་ ‚to make, render', the connection of འགྱུར་བ་ with the Term. Inf. of another verb must, in many cases, be rendered by the passive voice in our languages. In WT the verb ཆ་ཤེས་ ča-še ‚to go' is used in the sense of ‚to become, to grow'. The Perfect root for both is སོང་ ‚(went), grew, became, has become, is' (s. above). — In CT and later books འགྱུར་བ་ is used instead.

3. ‚must' is expressed by དགོས་པ་ ‚to be necessary' (s. 38. Note). In WT this is used in a very wide sense for any possible modification of the notion of necessity: ‚I must, should, want to, ought' and even ‚I will, wish, beg (for something)' is nothing but ང་ལ་དགོས་ ‚to me is necessary' which may be, in the last mentioned case, rendered somewhat more politely by adding ཞུ་ žu ‚pray!' ང་ལ་ཨ་ལུ་དགོས་ཞུ་ ‚I want potatoes, pray!' is as much to say as ‚Will you kindly give me some potatoes'. In books and more refined language several other verbs are used in the same sense, viz. རིགས་པ་ ‚it is right to' (usually with the Genit. Infin.), རུང་བ་ ‚it is meet, decent', འདོད་པ་ ‚to wish, desire', both with the Supine; དགའ་བ་ ‚to like' with the Dat. Inf. The popular substitute of the last, especially in use in WT, is འཐད་པ་, of similar meaning, added to the root.

41. Gerunds and Supines. We retain these terms, employed by former grammarians, but observe that they do not refer to the form, but to the meaning, as well as that Gerund is not to be understood in the same signification as in Latin, but as the Gérondif of some French grammarians, or what Shakespeare calls Past conjunctive participle in Hindi. These forms are of the greatest importance in Tibetan, being the only substitutes for most of those subordinate clauses which we are accustomed to introduce by conjunctions. They are formed by the two monosyllabic appendices དེ་ (so after the closing consonants ན་ ར་ ལ་ ས; དེ་ after ད, སྟེ་ after ག་ང་བ་མ and vowels and ཅིང་ (ཤིང་ or ཞིང་ according to the same rule as ཅིག་ 13.), both of which are added to the root, or by the terminations mentioned in 15. as composing the declension of nouns, which are added partly to the root, partly to the Infinitive or Participle.

A. Gerunds. All the following forms can be rendered by the English Participle ending in ing, but the more accurate distinctions must be expressed by various conjunctions.

1. དེ་ (དེ་ etc.), the most frequent of all these endings. It is added to the Present-root as well as to the Perfect-root: གཏོང་སྟེ་ ‚giving', བཏང་སྟེ་ ‚having given', and stands for all clauses beginning with when, as, since, after etc. Also in the spoken language of WT it is used most frequently. — Examples: ཕྲུ་གུ་ཆུས་བྱེར་དེ་ཤིའོ་ ‚the child, having been carried away by the water, died'; རྒྱལ་པོ་ཤི་སྟེ་རྒྱལ་སྲས་ཀྱིས་རྒྱལ་ས་བཟུང་ངོ་ ‚the king having died, the prince occupied the throne (kings-place)'; ཆུ་ཆེན་པོ་ཞིག་དེ་དྲུ་ཡོད་དེ་འགྲུལ་མི་ཐུབ་པོ་ ,as there is a great water, we cannot go'.

2. ཅིང་ (ཤིང་ etc.), of a similar sense, chiefly used for smaller clauses within a large one, མི་དགའ་ཞིང་ཁྲོས་ཏེ་ ,when, being displeased, he became angry', or ,growing displeased and angry'. Often it denotes two actions going on at the same time, or two states of a thing existing together, and then can only be translated by ,and', thus, མཐའ་མེད་ཅིང་མུ་མེད་ ,without end and boundary'; ཤ་ལ་ཟ་ཞིང་ཁྲག་ལ་འཐུང་བ་ ,to eat flesh and drink blood'*). It stands also in a causal sense: ,by doing etc.', as: ཉ་བཙོང་ཞིང་འཚོ་བ་ ,(we) live by catching fish'. These two (1. and 2.) can also, like the closing o, as mentioned in 40. 1. g, be added to every class of words, in the sense of being: ཁྱོད་རིགས་ཆེ་ཞིང་མཐོ་བ་སྟེ་ ,as you are high (-born), being of a great family'. In conversation, ཅིང་ is scarcely ever heard.

3. ནས་ (from, or after, doing something) in temporal clauses with ,after, when, as'; practically it is very much like ཏེ་, and often alternating with it. In most cases, in speaking always, it is added to the root, seldom to the infinitive.— Examples. ནམ་ལངས་ནས་སོང་ ‚when the night had risen (viz. at daybreak) he went'; ལང་ནས་སོང་ ‚after you will have risen, go!' དེ་མཐོང་ནས་སྐད་ཆུང་སྡེ་དུས་སོ་ ‚when I saw that, raising clamour, I wept'.

*) The objects of ཟ་བ་ and འཐུང་བ་ often assume the dative-sign, cf. English ,to feed on'.

4. ཏེ་ ‚in (doing something)' again for clauses with ‚since, when, as', but in most cases by far for ‚if' and conditional ‚when': འགྲོ་ན་ ‚if, or, when (I) go, or went'; ཤི་ཚེ་ན་ ‚when, after (he) has died', ‚if he is already dead'; ཤི་ན་ ‚if (he) die, should die', ‚if (he) died', ‚when (he) dies'; བྱེད་ན་ ‚if .. do, did'; བྱ་ན་ ‚if .. were to do'. It is added to the root, seldom to the infinitive, and as common in talking as in books.

5. ལ་ is of more various use. When added to the root, it is very much like ཅིང་, which it replaces in the conversational language of CT (where the first example of 2. would be, མ་དགའ་ལ་ཁྱོས་དེ་), but does not occur so often except in imperative or precative sentences, when it is added to the Imperative root of the subordinate verb, just like other gerunds: སོང་ལ་ལྟོས་ ‚going look!', ‚go and look!' ལོང་ལ་སོང་ ‚rise and go!'. This particle, like the above-mentioned, implies the verb ‚to be', especially when added to adjectives denoting a personal quality. མི་སྡུག་ལ་ཐུང་ངུ་ཡིན་དེ་ ‚being ugly and short'; དབྱིབས་ལེགས་ཤིང་ལྟ་ན་སྡུག་ལ་མཛེས་

ངོ་ ‚pretty, being of a good figure and nice to behold'. When added to the Infinitive, it denotes: a) of course, the real Dative, or the usual meanings of the postposition ལ་ with a substantive; thus, གཤེད་པ་ལ་དགའ་བ་ ‚to rejoice at killing, be fond of killing'. b) nearly the same as དེ་ or ‚as' in English, e. g. ལམ་གྱི་བར་དུ་རྫ་རྡེན་ཞིག་ཡོད་པ་ལ་ཤིང་རྟ་ལས་བབས་ཏོ་ ‚as there was an idol-shrine in the middle of the way, (she) alighted from (her) chariot'; རྒྱལ་པོ་ཉིན་རེ་བཞིན་དུ་དེར་ཁྲུས་བྱེད་དུ་འགྲོ་བ་ལ་ ‚as the king went there daily to bathe'; འཇིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ནང་ན་མི་འོང་བ་ལ་འདི་རྣ་འོང་བ་ཅི་ཡིན་ ‚as (it) does not occur in the (whole) world, what is (its) occurring here, or, how is it that is occurs here?'. Finally, in the language of common life ལ་ is added to the repeated root in order to express the English ‚while, whilst': ངས་ཤ་གཏུབ་གཏུབ་ལ་བྱོད་ཀྱིས་ཤིང་བྱིང་ ṅā ša tub-tùb-la kyód-di (15., Note) šiṅ kyoṅ WT, or བྱོད་ཀྱིས་ཤིང་བཀུར་ཤོག་ kyō'-kyī šiṅ kur-šog CT ‚while I am cutting the meat into pieces, bring you (some) wood'.

6. ལས་ added only to the Infinitive, literally ‚out of (the doing)'. This may mean a) ‚after', ཉལ་བ་ལས་ལང་ངོ་ ‚to rise from lying, after having lain'; དུར་ན་ཞག་གསུམ་འདུག་པ་ལས་དུར་ནས་བྱུང་ ‚after having been three days in the grave (I) came out of the grave'. — b) ‚while', in which case the root of the verb may be repeated, as: རོང་རོང་བ་ལས་བྱས་ཟེ་ཞིག་དང་ཕྲད་དོ་ ‚out of my walking i.e. when walking along, (I) met with a brahman'; ང་ཤ་གཏུབ་གཏུབ་པ་ལས་ཁྱོད་ཀྱིས་ཤིང་བཀྲུ་དེ་ཤོག་ (the above mentioned example (s. ལ་) translated into classical language); c) also the English ‚being about to' is, in books, often expressed by this Gerund: ནང་དུ་རོང་བ་ལས་སྒོ་བཅད་དོ་ ‚when (I) was about to enter, the door was shut'; ཤི་བ་ལས་ཕྱིར་རོས་པར་བྱུང་དོ་ ‚when (I) was going to die, (I) was restored to life again'. Which of the three is the real meaning, will in most cases be clear from circumstances. This gerund is not used in talking, at least in WT.

7. ཀྱིས་ (གྱིས་ etc.) or ཀྱི་ (གྱི་ etc.), or the Instrumental and Genitive cases of the root, mean a) ‚by doing something' or ‚because', e.g. དགོས་ཀྱིས་འདོང་ངོ་ ‚we come (here), because it is necessary'. ཁོ་རོས་བློག་བ་བྱ་ཡིས་སྐྱིང་མ་ཆུང་ཞིག་ ‚since I am resolved to help you, do not be depressed!' This, originally, is a function of the Instrumental only, but in later times the other cases also are used in this meaning. — b) more frequently they are used adversatively, ‚though', especially when connected with རོད་ (40. 1. e), ཅེས་སྨྲས་རོད་ཀྱིས་ཅེས་ཡིད་ཆེས་པར་འབྱུང་ ‚though (you) did say so, by what shall (I) believe (it)?' In other cases it may be left untranslated when the next sentence will commence with ‚but': ཟས་བཟང་པོ་མི་འདོད་ཀྱིས་ཟས་ཐག་མའི་ བ་ཟོས་སོ་ ‚not liking delicate food, he ate vulgar food' or ‚he did not like d. f., but preferred v. f.'. This Gerund is scarcely used in talking, at least in WT.

8. བས་ (བས་), the Instrumental of the Infinitive, ‚by (doing something)' is, of course, the proper expression for ‚because', but also very often used indiscriminately for ནི་ or ནས་ only for the sake of varying the mode of speaking: ཤིན་དུ་དཀའ་བ་ཡིན་བས་ ‚because it is very difficult'; བལྟས་ བས་ ‚when (he) looked'.

9. Also གིན་ the proper use of which has been shewn above (35. 2. d.) must be mentioned once more as it occurs in a similar sense to ཅིང་, སྨོན་ལམ་འདེབས་གིན་སོང་ཞེག་ ‚walk on praying (preces faciendo)!'; བྱང་བརྡུང་གིན་ངུས་བས་ ‚beating (her own) breast and weeping'.

B. Supines. They are expressed simply by the Terminative Case of the Infinitive or of the Root, མཐོང་བར་ or ཐོང་དུ་ ‚to see'. In many instances the use of either is optional, in others one is preferred. Their use is: with adjectives like the Latin supine in u, e.g. བསླབ་དུ་དཀའ་བ་ ‚difficult to learn'; with verbs expressing ‚to go, to send' etc., also ‚to pray' etc. like that in um: ལེན་དུ་སོང་ ‚go to fetch', གནང་དུ་གསོལ་ ‚(I) beg (you) to permit, — for permission'. In these cases the root is most common, but the Inf. བསྟན་པར་, or གནང་བར་, ལེན་པར་ may also be used. 2. Another use of the Supine is a) with verbs of sensation and, less frequently, with those of declaration, where we use sentences with ‚that' or the Participle or Infinitive: མ་འོང་བར་མཐོང་ནས་ ‚seeing (his) mother coming' (instead of which, however, འོང་བ་ may be said as well); ... བའི་དུས་ལ་བབ་པར་ཤེས་ནས་ ‚knowing that the time of ... ing had arrived' (lit: ‚that it had come down to the time'); རྒྱལ་པོའི་བུ་ཡིན་པར་དྲན་ནས་ ‚remembering him to be the kings son' or ‚that he was ...'. — b) in an adverbial sense, when we say ‚so that', especially in negative sentences, ‚so that not' ‚without ... ing', སྨན་ཀྱང་མ་ཚོར་བར་ ‚so that nobody may (did) perceive it', or ‚without anybody perceiving it.'

Note 1. The modern language of WT uses in the first instance (B. 1.) either the simple Infinitive, བསྟན་ཅེས་བཀའ་བོ་ (or དཀྲག་བོ་), or the same with ལ་, བསྟན་ཅེས་ལ་བཀའ་བོ་, or with ཀྱི་ལ་ (for the ཀྱིས་ of the books s. 7.2.), བསྟན་ཅེས་ཀྱི་ལ་བཀའ་བོ་; in the second either the same forms, or a particular one, which consists in repeating the final consonant of the root with the vowel a, to which also ལ་ may be added: thus, ལེན་ན་རོང་, ཁྱོད་རང་ལ་ཕྱག་བྱ་ལ་ཡོང་རས་རོང་ ‚(I) have come to meet you'; in the third, the direct Imperative adding ཤུ་ for the sake of civility, དགོངས་ཤུ་ ‚pray permit!'

In the case of B. 2., instead of མ་འདོང་བར་མཐོང་ནས་; the expression in common use will be ཇ་མ་ཡོང་ or ཡོང་ང་མཐོང་ནས་; instead of སྲས་ཀྱང་མ་ཆོར་བར་, either the same form, མ་ཆོར་ར་, or the Gerund, མ་ཆོར་ཏེ་. — In CT those examples would respectively, stand thus, བསླབ་ཏུ་ or བསླབ་བ་ or བསླབ་པའི་དོན་དུ་ཀག་པོ་ láb-tu, láb-ba (sounding almost lă-wa), láb-pa̤ don-du kag-po; in the third instance a peculiar word, ‚rog', is used, which is said to be originally the same as གྲོགས་ (རོགས་) ‚friend, assistant', and serves now as the respectful substitute of ཅིག་, Particle of the Imperative, གནང་རོག་ ‚pray permit!', སྤྱིར་རོག་ ‚pray give!' Instead of མ་ཆོར་ར་ etc. the most usual form in CT will be the simple Participle, མ་ཤེས་པ་.

Note 2. All the forms, of course, where ད་ or བ་ are met with might in certain cases belong to the Participle, and not to the Infinitive.

Note 3. The reader will have missed any mention of tenses of the class of Pluperfect, Past Future etc., and, indeed, there exists no form of the kind, and they can only be rendered by a Gerund, e.g. ཡི་གེ་བྲིས་ཟིན་ནས་བཀལ་སོང་ ,when (he) had written the letter, (he) sent (it) off'; ཡི་གེ་བྲིས་ཟིན་ནས་བཀལ་བར་འགྱུར་ (WT: བཀལ་ཡིན་, CT: བཀལ་བྱུ་ཡིན་) ,when (he) shall have written the letter, (he) will sent (it) off'. Neither have the Conditional or Subjunctive any special form. Thus, e.g., འདི་མ་བྱས་ན་མི་འཚོ་འདི་ ,if we did not do that, we could not live (i.e. we cannot earn our sustenance in any other manner); ཅིའི་ཕྱིར་ཁྱོད་ཟེར་བ་ནི་མི་ཉན་ ,why should not I hear (grant) what you say (your wish)?'; བརྡ་མ་བཀྲོལ་ཞིང་རྟགས་མ་མཐོང་ན་མི་རྟོགས་པར་འདུག་ ,if (you) had not explained it, and (we) had not seen the signs, we would not have understood it'; མིས་མི་རྟེད་པས་སྤྲུལ་པ་ཅིག་བདག་དགོས་ ,as a man would not find it, I must send an emanation'; vulg., WT, ཨེ་ཆུག་ཐག་རིང་མ་ཡིན་ན་ངའི་རྩ་འགྲོ་དུ་ཡོང་ཡིན་ ,if the distance was not so great, they would come to me (visit me)'. Here may be added, that also the intention of, or attempt at, doing something is expressed by the simple verb: thus, བདག་གིས་བཀག་ཡང་མ་བདུབ་ཀྱིས་ ,though I did try to hinder him, I could not'; བདག་གི་ཉེ་གནས་ཚུར་མཆོངས་པ་མཐོང་ནས། ཚུར་མ་ཕྱིན་པར་རྗེ་འཕྲལ་གྱི་མཐུས་བླངས་སོ་ ,as he saw his own disciple on the point of springing into the water (and that he had sprung off the bank), he held him back by the force of his magic, so that he did not touch the water' (s. 41. B. 2. b.). Especially the gerunds in ལས་ (41. A. 6.) have often this meaning: བདག་སྲོག་དང་བྲལ་བ་ལས་སྲོག་གི་སྐྱབས་བྱས་སོ་ ,when I was about to be parted from life, he saved it'; སྦྲུལ་ཁྲོས་ནས་གདུག་པ་ཕྱུང་བ་ལས་ཡང་འདི་སྙམས་བས་མས་སོ་ ,the snake, having become angry, though she intented (or: had at first int.) to let out her poison, reflected thus'. As will be seen from these examples, the action, in such cases, is thought to have begun in fact.

Chapter VII.

The Adverb.

42. We may distinguish three classes of adverbs: 1. Primitive adverbs. 2. Adverbs formed from Adjectives. 3. Adverbs formed from Substantives or Pronouns.

1. Very few Primitive Adverbs occur; the most usual are: ད་ ‚now‘, ནམ་ ‚when‘, སང་ (books and CT) or ཐོ་རེ་ (WT) ‚to morrow‘, and a few similar ones; ཡང་ ‚again‘, and the two negatives མི་ and མ་, the latter of which is used in prohibitive sentences, and with a past tense, as མི་གཏོང་ ‚(I) do not give‘, མི་གཏང་ ‚(I) shall not give‘, but: མ་བདང་ ‚did not give‘, མ་གཏོང་ (WT: མ་བདང་) ‚do not give!' The verbs ཡིན་, ལགས་, མཆིས་, རེད་ have always མ་ instead of མི་ before them (40.). Another particle of this kind, of a merely formal value, is ནི་, which is added to any word or group of words in order to single it out and distinctly separate it from everything that follows. It is, therefore, often very useful in lessening the great indistinctness of the language, especially so when separating the subject from the attribute: མི་དེ་ནི་ལ་དྭགས་པ་ཡིན་ ,that man is a Ladakee'. (There is scarcely an adequate word to be found in our modern languages, but the Greek γε, or μεν—δε—, are very similar.) In talking it is seldom heard, and, when used, in WT pronounced: ནིང་.

2. Adverbs may be formed from any Adjective by putting it in the Terminative case. བཟང་པོ་ ,good', བཟང་པོར་ ,well'; རབ་ ,principal', རབ་ཏུ་ ,principal, very'; དྲག་པོ་ ,violent', དྲག་པོར་ or དྲག་ཏུ་ ,violently'.

3. Nearly all the local Adverbs are formed from Substantives or Pronouns with some local Postposition: གོང་ ,the place (space) above, upper part', གོང་ན་ ,above', གོང་ཏུ་ ,upwards', གོང་ནས་ ,from above (downwards)'; འདི་ ,this', འདི་ན་ ,in this, here', འདི་རུ་, འདིར་ ,hither, here' (cf. 15.), འདི་ནས་ ,hence'; དེ་ ,that', དེ་ན་ ,there', དེ་རུ་,དེར་ ,thither, there', དེ་ནས་ ,from there, thence, then, after that'.

Note. In talking the simple adjective is used, mostly, instead of its adverb (2. class): མགྱོགས་པ་ for — པར་ ‚quickly, soon'.

Chapter VIII.

The Postposition.

43. There are two kinds of Postpositions: 1. Simple Postpositions. These are the same that we know already as forming the cases (15). 2. Compound Postpositions, formed in the manner of local Adverbs (42. 3), with which they are, indeed, with a few exceptions, identical.

1. Simple Postpositions. These are: ལ་ (the affix of the Dative), ན་ (Locative), ནས་ and ལས་ (Ablative), སུ་, ར་, སུ, ཏུ, དུ (Terminative).

Their use will be best seen in the following examples:

བོང་བུ་ས་ལ་འགྲེའོ་, vulg: འགྲེ་འདུག་, Tsang: བོང་གུ་ས་ལ་ འགྲེ་གིས་ ‚the ass rolls himself on the ground'.

རྟ་ལ་ཞོན་ཏེ་ (or ནས་) འགྲོ་ ‚having mounted on the horse (he) goes', or ‚(he) goes on horseback'.

མཁའ་ལ་) ནམ་མཁའ་ལ་འཕུར་འདུག་, CT: བྱ་ནམ་མཁའ་ལ་འཕེར་གིས་འདུག་ ‚the bird flies in the sky'.

མཚན་ལ་ཆ་ཡིན་ WT, ནམ་ལ་འགྲོ་རྒྱུ་ཡིན་ CT ‚(we) shall set out at night'.

སྨན་ལ་མཁས་པ་ ‚skilful in medicine'.

མགོ་ལ་རྨུག་རག་གི་ WT, འདུག་གམ་ CT ‚is (there) ache in (your) head', ‚have you head-ache?'

ཁྱིམ་ན་ (or ད་) ཡོད་, vulg: ཁང་པ་ལ་ (or རྟ་) ཡོད་ ‚(he) is in the house, at home'.

ཁྱིམ་དུ་ནོང་, vulg: ཁང་པ་རྟ་ (or ལ་) ནོང་ ‚go into the house, home!'.

མི་དེ་རྒྱལ་པོར་བཙུགས་ནོ་ (or བསྐོས་སོ་), W: རྒྱལ་པོ་ལ་བདུག་ ‚(they) made (or selected, raised) that man to (be) king'.

ཡོ་བྱད་སྤྲས་སུ་བཙུགས་ནོ་, CT: འཁྲིད་བྱད་ (or ཆ་ལག་) སྤྲས་ལ་ བཙུགས་ ‚(they) made (their) luggage into a pillow, used it as a pillow'.

གང་དུ་ (or གར་དུ་) འདྲི་, WT: གར་དུ་ཆ་མཉམ་ (s. 35. 2. b, ཡིན་ omitted, 40. 1. a), CT: གཤ་ལ་འགྲོ་གིས་ཡིན་ (ཡ་ or བས་, provincial irregularities 35. 2. c) ‚where are (you) going?'

ང་དི་ཏོར་ (or ཏིག་སར་ལ་) འགྲོ་འདུག་ (vulg.) ‚I am going to Tino (or K'oksar)'.

བྱི་བ་བརྒྱད་པ་ནས་ ‚from (after) the eighth month'.

འཁོར་བ་ལས་འགྲོལ་བ་, vulg: ··· ནས་བསྒྲལ་བ་ ‚to deliver from the circulation (transmigration)'.

ཤ་གྲུ་ལས་ཁང་པ་རྩིག་པ་, WT: ནས་, Tsang: ཤ་གྲུའི་ནང་རྩིག་ པ་ ‚to build a house out of brick (Ts: a house of brick)'.

ཀུན་ལས་མཁས་པ་ (books and CT), WT: ཚང་མའི་སང་མཁས་པ་ ‚wiser than all, the wisest, most skilful of all'.

གཉིས་ལས་མ་ལུས་སོ་ ‚more than two are not left'.

Besides these དང་ ‚with' is to be mentioned as Simple Postposition: thus, ཁྱེའུ་དང་སྨྲས་ཏེ་, WT: ཁྱོག་ཐོང་དང་ལབ་སྟེ་ ‚speaking (conversing) with the youth'; ང་དང་ ‚with me', or, in fuller form, ང་དང་ལྡན་གཅིག་ཏུ་, ང་དང་བཅས་སུ་ vulg: ང་དང་མཉམ་པོ་ ‚together with me'. In WT it is even used for the instrumental when the real instrument (tool) of an action is meant, e. g. རྒྱལ་པོས་བློན་པོ་རལ་གྲིས་བསད་ so in books, but WT: རལ་གྲི་དང་བསད་ ‚the king killed the minister with the sword'. It is, moreover, added to many Adjectives and Verbs, when we use the Accusative or Dative or other Prepositions, e.g. དེ་དང་འདྲ་བ་ ‚like (with) that, similar to that'. With an Infinitive it denotes the synchronism of the action with another one, ཉི་མ་ཤར་བ་དང་ ‚with the sun rising, at sunrise'; གཉིད་སོང་བ་དང་ ‚with (on) their going to sleep, when they went to sleep'; ཅེས་སྨྲས་པ་དང་ཁྱིམ་དུ་སོང་ ‚(with) saying so he went home' or also ‚he said so, and went home'. Often it is found with an Imperative, without any perceptible signification, if it is not to be regarded as a substitute for ཅིག (38): དཔྱོད་དང་ ‚now eat!' For its use as a conjunction see the next chapter.

2. Compound Postpositions. These may conveniently be grouped in two classes: a) Local Compound Postpositions, which are virtually the same as the Local Adverbs specified in 42.3.: thus, ནང་ན་ ‚in (the midst of)', ནང་དུ་ ‚into' also ‚in', ནང་ནས་ ‚from, out of'. The most usual ones will be seen in the following examples:

རྩེང་གི་ནང་ན་ (or དུ་) ཁྲུས་བྱེད་པ་ ‚to bathe in a pond'.

ཆུའི་ནང་དུ་ཞུགས་ ‚he entered into the water' (both in books and common talk).

ལྷའི་ནང་ན་གཙོ་བོ་ ‚the lord among the gods'.

ཁང་པའི་ནང་ནས་འཐོན་ (or འབྱུང་) vulg. ‚(he) comes (emerges) out of the house'.

སྒོའི་གོང་དུ་ (or ན་, or ལ་) ‚above the door' (books and vulg., but more usual in WT: སྒོ་ལྟག་, CT སྒོ་ཐོད་).

ཡབ་ཀྱི་གོང་དུ་འདས་, vulg.: ཡབ་ཀྱི་སྔོན་ལ་ (or ལྷུན་ལ་), CT also གདོང་ལ་ ‚he died before his father'.

པདྨའི་སྟེང་དུ་ (or ན་, or ཐོག་དུ་, or ཁ་ནས་) བཞུགས་པ་, vulg., in WT: ཁ་ཐོག་ལ་ (ཁ་ཐོད་ལ་), CT: དགེང་ལ་ ‚to sit on a lotus-flower'.

སྒོའི་འབྱམ་དུ་ (or ལ་, or ན་) (books and talk) ‚beside, near the door'.

ཤིང་གི་དྲུང་དུ་, vulg.: མདུན་ལ་, རྩ་ན་, རྩར་ ‚under a tree' (literally: ‚in front, by the side, of a tree').

ཞལ་ཆེ་བའི་དྲུང་དུ་ (མདུན་དུ་) འགྲིལ་བ་ ‚to take before the judge'.

བྱེ་བ་བརྒྱད་ཀྱི་རྗེས་ལ་ CT, རྗེང་ལ་ WT ‚after eight months'.

བྱེ་བ་གཉིས་ཀྱི་སྔན་ལ་ (or སྔོན་ལ་) vulg. ‚before two months, two months ago'.

སའི་འོག་ཏུ་གཏེར་སྦེད་པ་ books and CT, WT: སའི་འོག་ལ་ གཏེར་སྦ་བ་ ‚to hide a treasure below the ground'.

སའི་འོག་ནས་འབྱུང་བ་ CT, WT: སའི་ཡོག་ནས་འཕྱོན་པ་ ‚to emerge, come out, from below the ground'.

ཆུའི་ཕ་རོལ་ན་ books and CT, in CT also: ཕར་ཕྱོགས་པ་, WT: ཕར་ཁ་ལ་, ཕར་ངོས་ལ་ ‚beyond the water, river'.

ཆུའི་ཆུ་རོལ་ན་ books and CT, WT: ཆུར་ཁ་ལ་ ‚on this side of the water'.

ཞག་གསུམ་དུ་ (or ནས་) ཐང་དེའི་ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པར་འགྱུར་རོ་, CT: ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་སྐྱེབ་ཡོང་, WT: ཕར་ཁ་ལ་སྐྱེབ་ཡིན་ ‚in (after) three days he will arrive beyond this plain, will have crossed it'.

ཁང་པའི་ཕྱོགས་བཞི་རུ་ ‚in the four regions of the house, roundabout'.

ཡུལ་དེའི་ཕྱོགས་ལ་སོང་ ,go in the direction of, towards, that village'.

ལོ་བདུན་གྱི་བར་དུ་, CT: ལོ་བདུན་ཐུག་(པ)། WT: ¨ རྩུག་པ་ ,for seven years'.

འདི་ནས་དེའི་བར་དུ་, CT: འདི་ནས་དེ་ཐུག་པ་, WT: ཨེ་ནས་ཨ་རྩུག་པ་ ,from this to that'.

ང་ཀུང་དི་རུ་ཚ་ཅེས་རྩུག་པ་ WT, ,till I go to Kullu'.

b) General Compound Postpositions, expressive of the general relations of things and persons. They are formed in the same manner as the Local ones, from substantives, adjectives, and even verbs. Their use may be learned from the following examples:

ངའི་ཕྱིར་(དུ) or དོན་དུ་ books and CT, WT: ངའི་ཕྱི་ལ་ ,for me, in my behalf, for my sake, on my account'.

ཅད་དེ་ཅི་ཅེའི་ཕྱིར་བྱུང་, WT: ཅའི་ཕྱི་ལ་ཡོངས་, CT: གང་གི་དོན་དུ་བྱུང་ ,for what reason has that illness come? what is the cause of etc.?'.

སེམས་ཅན་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་དོན་དུ་ ,in behalf of all living beings'.

ཤིང་གི་ཚབ་ལ་རྡོ་ (WT: རྡོ་བ) བཏོང་ ,give (apply) stone instead of wood'.

བཞིན་དུ་ ,according to, like, as' — རྒྱལ་པོའི་བཀའ་བཞིན་དུ་བྱས་ཏེ་ ,doing according to the word of the king'; དེ་

བཞིན་དུ་ ‚according to that, like that, thus, so‘; སྔ་མ་བཞིན་དུ་ ‚as formerly, as before‘; instead of it the dialect of WT uses ནང་ལྟར་, generally with the Genitive, thus the last example there would be: སྔོན་མའི་ནང་ལྟར་.

ལྟར་ ‚like‘, རི་ལྟར་ ‚like a hill‘; འདི་ལྟར་, དེ་ལྟར་ ‚like this, like that, thus, so, ཇི་ལྟར་, CT: གང་ལྟར་ ‚like what? how? in what manner?‘.

In the dialect of WT མཚོག་ས་ or མཚོག་ས་སེ་ is used instead (which is a corruption of མཚུངས་, occurring in books with the same meaning): thus, རི་མཚོག་ས་སེ་ ‚like a hill‘; འདི་མཚོག་ས་, དེ་མཚོག་ས་ ‚thus‘; or རྒྱ་ (properly རྒྱས་), ཨི་རྒྱ་, ཡ་རྒྱ་ ‚thus‘, ག་རྒྱ་ ‚how?‘.

Chapter IX.

The Conjunction.

44. The written language possesses very few, the spoken still fewer, Conjunctions, most of which are coordinative. The common word for ‚and‘ is དང་ which we have seen above in the sense of ‚with‘, གསེར་དང་། དངུལ་དང་། ཆུགས་ལ་སོགས་པ་ ‚gold and silver and iron and collection (i. e. and so on)‘, though the position of the šad (10.) after the word དང་ shows that it is always considered as belonging to the preceding member of the sentence, similar, in this respect, to the Latin ‚que'; nor can it in any case begin a sentence. Very seldom, and only in later literature, it appears as combining two verbs, if not, indeed, the root ought to be regarded there as abbreviation for the infinitive. Further: ཡང་ ‚also, too'. When belonging to a single word or notion it is put after it in an enclitical way like ‚quoque' in Latin. It is changed according to the termination of the preceding word, into ཀྱང་ after ག་ ང་ ད་ ན་ ས་*), into འང་ often after vowels (cf. 6). Thus: བུ་ཞིག་ཀྱང་ཁྱིད་དེ་ ‚taking also a son (with him)'. When repeated, it has the signification of Latin ‚et— et—', མ་ཡང་ཤི། བུ་ཡང་ཤིའོ།། ‚both mother and son died'. Often, especially in negative sentences, it means ‚even', གཅིག་ཀྱང་མ་རྙེད་དོ་ ‚even one (they) did not find — not even one'. This is the only means for expressing ‚none, no, nothing', མི་སྙེ་ (or གང་) ཡང་མ་འོངས་ (resp. ཕོངས་) ‚nobody came'; དེ་ན་ཅི་ཡང་ (ཅིའང་, or ཅང་) མེད་ ‚there is nothing' (cf. 29). When combined with verbs, བཙལ་ཡང་མ་རྙེད་དོ་ ‚even searching (they) did not find', it serves as another expression for ‚though' or also ‚but' (s. 41. A. 7. b): thus, ‚though they searched, they etc.' or ‚they searched, but they etc.'. Standing for itself (not leaning on the preceding word) it means ‚again, once more' (when it is to be regarded as adverb), དེར་ཡང་འཕམས་ནས་ ‚there (I) fainting once more etc.'. In the beginning of a sentence it is ‚and, again, moreover', and may occasionally be rendered by ‚however, but'. ཡང་ན་, ‚or'; repeated, ཡང་ན་ ... ཡང་ན་ ‚either—or—'. — ‚Or' is expressed also by the interrogative affix of the finite verb (34. 1.), འམ་ etc., གསེར་དངུལ་འམ། ཟངས་ཀྱི་བུམ་པོ་ ‚a bottle of gold, silver, or copper'. — དེན་ཀྱང་ ‚nevertheless, but', vulg: ཡིན་ཀྱང་ occurs much less frequently in Tibetan than in the European languages.

*) This is not very carefully observed even in good mscr. and prints, where ཡང་ will occur sometimes after ག་ etc., and ཀྱང་ after the other consonants and even after vowels.

The only Subordinate Conjunctions are: 1. གལ་ཏེ་ ‚if', introducing conditional sentences ending in ན་ (40. 1. A. 4). But, as the conditional force really rests on the closing ན་, the initial གལ་ཏེ་ may be put or omitted at pleasure; 2. ཅི་སྟེ་ ‚but if'; གལ་ཏེ་ནུས་ན་ ... ‚if I can ...', ཅི་སྟེ་མི་ནུས་ན་ ‚but if not ...'; this last is found only in books.

Chapter X.

The Interjection.

45. The most common Interjection is ཀྱེ་, or, repeated, ཀྱེ་ཀྱེ་ ‚oh!, alas!' used also before the Vocative. The language of common life uses instead: བྷ་ wa, or བྷཻ་ wä.

Chapter XI.

Derivation.

46. Derivation of Substantives. As most of what belongs under this head has already been mentioned in 11. and 12. only the formation of abstract nouns remains to be spoken of. 1. The unaltered adjective may be used as an abstract noun, especially with the article ད་, as: གྲང་བ་དྲོ་བར་འགྱུར་ ‚the cold is changed into warmth'. — To this may be added the pronoun ཉིད་ (གྲང་བ་ཉིད་ ‚ipsum frigidum'); but this is used scarcely anywhere else than in metaphysical treatises, from whence a few expressions, such as སྟོང་པ་ཉིད་ ‚the vacuum, the absolute rest in deliverance from existence' have become more generally known. — 2. In the case of two correlative ideas existing, frequently the compound of both is used, esp. in common talk, ཆེ་ཆུང་ ‚size' (lit. ‚large and small'), སྦོམ་ཕྲ་ ‚thickness' (‚thick and thin'), e.g. ཆེ་ཆུང་ཀི་ཡུངས་འབྲུ་ཙམ་ ‚the size as much as a mustard-seed'. — 3. ཁྱད་ ‚difference' (or, sometimes, ཚད་, ཚོད་ ‚measure') is added, མཐོ་ཁྱད་ ‚height', ཕྱུག་ཁྱད་ ‚wealth, riches'. — 4. Mental qualities are in most cases paraphrased by སེམས་, or བློ་ with a genitive, བཟོད་པའི་སེམས་ ‚mind of suffering, enduring, i.e. patience', མཁས་པའི་བློ་ ‚wise mind, wisdom, skill'; དགའ་བའི་སེམས་ ‚mind of rejoicing, joy' (vulg: སེམས་དགའ་མོ་), དད་པའི་སེམས་ ,mind of belief (also ,a believing mind'), faith'. — 5. Diminutives are formed by adding the termination ཀུ་, often with an alteration of the preceding vowel: རྟ་ ,horse', རྟེའུ་ ,little horse, foal'; མི་ ,man', མིའུ་ ,little man, dwarf'; རྡོ་ ,stone', རྡེའུ་ ,small stone, calculus'. If a word ends with a consonant, only u is added, and a new syllable formed: ལུག་ ,sheep', ལུག་གུ་ ,lamb'.

47. Derivation of Adjectives. 1. Possessive adjectives are regularly expressed by adding the syllable ཅན་, or the phrase དང་ལྡན་པ་, abridged ལྡན་ to any substantive, མགོ་ཅན་ ,having a head'; མི་མགོ་ཅན་ ,having the head of a man'; སྐྲ་ཅན་ ,having hair, (long-) haired'; རིག་པ་ཅན་, རིག་པ་དང་ལྡན་པ་ ,possessing knowledge, learned, wise'; དང་ལྡན་པ་ is never heard in common talk in WT. — 2. Adjectives of appurtenance are generally expressed by the genitive of the substantive, གསེར་གྱི་ ,of gold, golden'; ཤའི་མིག་ ,the eye of flesh, the carnal, bodily eye', oppos.: ཤེས་རབ་ཀྱི་མིག་ ,the eye of knowledge, spiritual eye'. — 3. Negative, or privative adjectives are formed in several ways: a) by the simple negative མི་, མི་འོས་པ་ ,unworthy'; མི་རུང་བ་ ,unfit'; མི་ཐོས་པ་ ,unheard of'. b) by adding མེད་ ,without'

མགོ་མེད་ ‚headless‘; སྐྱོན་མེད་ ‚faultless‘. c) by adding the verb བྲལ་(བ་) ‚separated from‘, ལུས་དང་བྲལ་བ་, ལུས་བྲལ་ ‚separated from the body, bodiless‘. — 4. The English adjectives in -able, -ible are expressed by རུང་བ་ ‚to be fit‘, added to the Supine, or to the simple Root, འཐུང་དུ་རུང་བ་, འཐུང་རུང་ ‚fit for drinking, drinkable‘, vulgo: འཐུང་ཉན་ (from ཉན་པ་ ‚to be able‘), འཐུང་ཆོག་ (ཆོག་ ‚permitted, lawful‘).

Part III.

Syntax.

48. Arrangement of words. 1. The invariable rule is this: in a simple sentence all other words must precede the verb; in a compound one all the subordinate verbs in the form of gerunds or supines, and all the coordinate verbs in the form of the root, each closing its own respective clause, must precede the governing verb (examples s. below). — 2. The order in which the different cases of substantives belonging to a verb are to be arranged, is rather optional, so that e. g. the agent may either precede or follow its object. Local and temporal adverbs or adverbial phrases are, if possible, put at the head of the sentence. — 3. The order of words belonging to a substantive is this: 1 The Genitive, 2. the governing Substantive, 3. the Adjective (unless this is itself put, in the genitive, before; 16), 4. the Pronoun, 5. the Numeral, 6. the indefinite Article: thus, ངའི་བུ་མོ་ཆུང་ངུ་འདི་ ‚this my little daughter'; གོས་དམར་པོ་ཞིག་ ‚a red gown'; གོས་དམར་པོ་ or དམར་པོའི་གོས་ ‚the red gown'; རྒྱལ་ཁམས་ཆེན་པོ་འདི་གསུམ་ ‚these three great kingdoms'. Adverbs precede the word they belong to: ཤིན་ཏུ་ཆེན་པོ་ ‚very great'; ཤིན་ཏུ་མྱུར་བར་ཡོག་ ‚come very quickly'. —

4. In correlative sentences (cf. 29) the Relative precedes the Demonstrative: གང་ཡོད་པ་དེ་ཐོང་ཞིག་ ‚what there is, give!‘ i. e. ‚give whatever you have‘, and in comparative sentences the thing with which another is compared, ordinarily precedes this (cf. 17).

49. Use of the cases. As the necessary observations about the instrumental have been made in 30, about the other cases and postpositions partly in 15, partly in 43, it is only the Accusative, that requires a few words more, as it is very often used absolutely (as in Greek). a) Acc. temporalis: མཚན་མོ་ ‚at night‘; གསོན་པའི་ཚེ་ ‚during (his etc.) lifetime‘; དེའི་ཚེ་, དེ་དུས་ ‚at that time‘; ཉི་མ་གཅིག་བསླབས་ནས་ ‚having studied for one day, after one day's study‘. — b) Acc. modalis: དབྱིབས་རྒྱམ་པ་ ‚regarding the size, round‘; གཏིང་ཟབ་ཁྲུ་བརྒྱད་པ་ ‚regarding the depth, eight cubits‘ (cf. 12); ཁ་དོག་དུ་བ་ལྟ་བུར་ཡོད་པ་ ‚regarding colour, being like smoke‘ (cf. 50, 1, a); རིགས་མཐུན་པ་ ‚with regard to (his) birth, equal‘ i. e ‚of equal birth‘. Here ནི་ (42. 1) is very often employed: དབྱིབས་ནི་རྒྱམ་པ་ etc. Nearly in all cases, however, postpositions may be added, and in talking they are preferred to the simple Accusative: མཚན་མོ་ལ་, མཚན་ལ་, དེའི་ཚེ་ན་, དབྱིབས་ལ་ etc.

50. Simple Sentences. — 1. Affirmative sentences. — a) the attribute being a noun, the verb: to be, become, remain etc.: མི་འདི་ནི་མཁས་པ་ཡིན་ ‚this man is wise'; འདི་ནི་མི་མཁས་པ་ཞིག་ཡིན་ ‚this is a wise man'. When the verb is འགྱུར་བ་ (to become), གནས་པ་ (to remain) etc. the attribute must be put in the Terminative: སྐྲ་དཀར་པོར་གྱུར་ཏེ་ ‚(his) hair became white'; རྒྱལ་པོ་ཡི་དམ་ལ་བརྟན་པར་གནས་སོ་, vulg: བརྟན་པོ་གནས་པ་ཡིན་ ‚the king remained steadfast on his vow'; in some special cases this may take place, even if the verb is simply ‚to be': ལུས་གཟུགས་ཐམས་ཅད་མི་འདྲ་སྟེ། ཀང་པ་འབའ་ཞིག་ཁྲ་བོར་འདུག་གོ་ ‚while his whole shape was like a man's, his foot only was piebald'. b) the attribute being any other verb: རྒྱ་ནག་ཡུལ་གྱི་རྒྱལ་པོ་སྔ་མ་ཞིག་གིས་ཡུལ་དེའི་བྱང་ཕྱོགས་སུ་ལྷུགས་རི་ཤིན་དུ་ཆེན་པོ་ཞིག་བརྩེགས་སོ་ ‚an ancient king of China built a very large wall in the north of that country'.

2. Interrogative sentences. — a) simple: ཁྱོད་ཀྱི་བུ་ཁང་པ་ལ་འདུག་གམ་ ‚is your son in the house?'; དེ་དུ་སུ་ཡོད་ ‚who is there?'; ཅི་ལ་ཡོང་ ‚what do you come for?', ‚what do you want?'. — རིན་ཚམ་ W (རིན་གོང་ C) ‚how much (is) the price?'.

Besides the affix am the later literature and the conversational language of CT has the accentuated interrogative particle ཨེ་ é, immediately before the verb: གཏབ་ཨེ་ཡོད་ ťab é yö ‚is there any means ....?‘; ལས་འདི་བྱེད་ཨེ་ནུས་ lą̈ di ǰé é nü̱ ‚can you do this work?‘.

The form of a question is also used to express uncertain suppositions (likely to become realized), as: རྗེད་པ་སྲིད་དམ་ ‚is forgetting possible?‘ for ‚he may possibly have forgotten it‘; ཤི་བ་ཡིན་ནམ་ ‚won't he die?‘; འདི་བདུད་མ་ཡིན་ནམ་ ‚this (apparition) is not the devil, I hope?‘.

b) double: ནང་ན་ཡོད་དམ་མེད་ ‚is (he) within or not?‘; བདག་ལ་སྦྱིན་དུ་རྩང་ངམ་མི་རྩང་ ‚is it agreeable (to you i. e. do you consent) to give me (your son) or not?‘; ང་འོངས་པ་མི་དགའ་འམ་ཅི་ཉེས་ ‚are you sorry at my arrival, or what (else) is the matter (with you — because you weep)?‘.

3. Imperative and Optative or Precative sentences do not require any additional remarks besides what is said in 38.

51. Compound Sentences. After having examined in 41 the different gerunds as the constituent parts of compound sentences, a few examples will suffice for illustration.

1. Compound sentences, for the most part coordinative: རྒྱལ་པོས་ཁྲིམས་བཅའ་སྟེ[1]། བཟང་[2]ལ་བྱ་དགའ་སྟེད། ངན་པ་ལ་

1) འཆའ་བ་, perf. བཅའ་ ‚to make‘ esp. ‚institute,

ཆད་པ་གཅོད་[3]། བྱེ་སྲང་གཏན་ལ་ཕབ་[4]། མི་ལ་ཡི་གེ་བསླབས་སོ་[5]།།
‚The king having given a law, the good were given rewards, the bad punished, measures and weights arranged, and people taught letters (i. e. reading and writing)‘.

2. subordinate sentences: དེར་[1] བྱང་མེད་གཉེས་ཤིག་[2] བྱ་གཅིག་ལ་རྩོད་དེ། རྒྱལ་པོ་བློ་[3] མཐས་པས་བརྡག་ནས་[4] འདི་སྐད་ཅེས་[5] བཟློ་འོ། །ཁྱོད་གཉེས་ཀྱིས་བྱའི་ཡག་པ་རེ་རེས་བཟུང་སྟེ། དྲངས་ལ་[6] གང་གིས་ཐོབ་པ་[7] བྱ་ཁྱེར་ཞེག་[8] ཅེས་བཟློ་བ་དང་[9]། བྱའི་མ་མ་ཡིན་པ་དེས་ནི་[10] བྱ་ལ་སྐྱིང་རྡེ་མེད་པས་[11] སྐད་ཀྱིས་[12] མི་དོགས་ཏེ། མཐུ་ཇི་ཡོད་པར་[13] དྲངས་སོ། །བྱའི་མ་གང་ཡིན་པ་དེ་ནི་བྱ་ཡ་བྱམས་པས་སྐད་ཀྱིས་དོགས་ཏེ། སྟོབས་ཀྱིས་ཐུབ་ཀྱང་[14] དྲག་ཏུ་[15]

མ་[16]དང་སོ། །ཆུལ་ཁིམ་དུག་དྲུ་དང་བ་དེ་ལ། འདི་ནི་ཁྱོད་ཀྱི་བུ་མ་ཡིན་ཏེ། བྱད་མེད་ཅིག་ཤོས་[17]ཀྱི་བུ་ཡིན་བས་ན[18]། དང་ཁོང་[19]སྐྱེས་ཤིག་[20]ཅེས་སྐྱས་པ་དང་། དལ་གྱིས་དངས་བའི་བུ་ཡིན་བར་གྱུར་ཏེ་[21]བུ་ཁྱིར་རོ།། ,There being certain two women quarrelling about one boy, the king (being) wise of understanding having examined (the case) thus ordered: You two, having seized from each (side) a hand of the boy, pull, and who gets him, (she) may carry him off. — When he had so spoken, she who was not the boy's mother, because she had no compassion for the boy, not fearing (she might) hurt (him), pulled with what force she had. She who (in truth) was the boy's mother, because she had compassion with the boy, fearing (she might) hurt (him), though she was able by force, did not pull hard. The king said to her who had pulled hard: Because this, not being your son, is the other woman's son, say (it) outright'. When he had so spoken, as he had turned out to be the son of the gentle puller, (she) carried off the boy'.
